Rogers Leaving Nixon Cabinet . . .

Kissinger Is Named Secretary Of State

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers has resigned effective Sept. 3 and will be replaced by Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon announced Wednesday.

Nixon opened a news conference at the Western White House by saying he was announcing Rogers' departure with deep regret.

At the same time he urged that the Senate act quickly on confirming Kissinger, who will remain as Nixon's national security adviser as well as becoming secretary of state.

Rogers, 60, has been secretary since the beginning of the Nixon administration and is the last surviving member of the President's original Cabinet.

A source in Rogers' former New York law firm said he would be returning to private practice immediately upon leaving the State Department.

Wednesday's development ends months of speculation that Kissinger would become in name what many observers already considered him to be in fact.

Rogers has been the object of some scorn for his low-keyed role in U.S. foreign policy, dating back to the early years of his tenure when Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said the secretary "was the laughing stock" of Washington.

In more recent times, Rogers has privately expressed dissatisfaction with the handline-grabbing abilities of Kissinger, although saying publicly he had no quarrel with the national security adviser.

Rogers also has been openly unhappy with the White House involvement in the Watergate affair and has criticized the claim of national security to excuse establishment of secret "plumbers" groups to plug government leaks.

He has clearly separated himself from Watergate and has proudly talked of the State Department's clean role in the affair.

Some State Department officials said after the announcement that the timing of Rogers' resignation was tied to his feeling about Watergate.

However, Rogers told newsmen in a brief meeting following Nixon's announcement that "I would have left whether there had been a Watergate or not."

As an indication that Rogers' departure was not a sudden development, sources in his former New York law firm said the secretary had made it known to them several months ago he would be returning in September.

Nixon also said Wednesday that it was Rogers' own decision to leave. The President noted that Rogers had sought to resign more than a year ago but had been persuaded to stay on until important international matters were settled.

These included the negotiations to end the Vietnam war, the Soviet summit meeting and the European Conference on Security and Cooperation.

In announcing that Kissinger was taking over the State Department, Nixon refrained from any descriptions of his ability or his role in the past.

But by saying Kissinger would keep his job as chief White House Foreign Affairs adviser, Nixon made clear the importance he places on the former Harvard professor.

For the first time since the advent of special White House advisers for foreign policy, the secretary of state will have both roles.

Even with Rogers the nominal head of the State Department, Kissinger clearly was the main force in formulating and carrying out U.S. foreign policy.

Statehouse Explored By Blind Tour Group

By GRACIA SIEB
Star Staff Writer

There are not many who can boast of having the Royal Guard of England stop and break formation to let tourists touch their "fuzzy hats."

But then there were only a selected few — 25 to be exact — who were members of a blind tour group last summer, during which the incident occurred. The group, consisting of blind students from southern California, visited Europe as good will ambassadors under the auspices of Services for the Blind, Inc. of Santa Ana, Calif.

Currently eight of the blind teenagers are restaging the event, only this time the setting is the United States.

Tuesday evening the students arrived in Lincoln with their director, Jim Judge, after visiting Cheyenne and Casper, Wyo. On Wednesday they participated in tours of the Nebraska Capitol Building and the Governor's Mansion.

Take Initiative
"A guide is usually afraid of a situation that includes a tour for blind people. He just doesn't know what to do about it. So we usually wait for the opportunity to take the initiative," said Allan Horst, a member of the group.

Several of students may be visually impaired and others completely sightless, but initiative is one thing which none of them lacks. Anyone visiting the Capitol Wednesday afternoon would have found the students touching and studying the carved doors of the old Senate Chamber with sensitive fingers.

The episode was repeated several times within the structure — at the hand-tooled, pigskin doors of the Legislative Chamber, at carved benches and at the bronze decorated doors of the Nebraska Supreme Court.

"This may sound far out," Horst explained, "but there are certain vibrations and feelings that you get in buildings like that. Like when we entered the Capitol Rotunda, you could tell that the ceiling was very high, because of the sounds in the area."

Hospitality Impressive
Midwestern hospitality also has impressed every member of the group.

"The hospitality out here is great. When we were in Casper, Wyo., the people there took us to a lake and let us go out in a boat," noted Kenneth O'Sullivan.

"There was a fantastic auditory experience which took place during our train trip," Judge said. "A large family, which we named the King Family, was on its way to Ogden, Utah, for a reunion. All at once they started singing Christmas carols."

"It has been a unique experience because of the many different people we have met and the interesting personalities we have encountered. Even the people you meet in the bathrooms are interesting," added Horst.

Case 'Water Under Bridge'

. . . President Won't Quit

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon stoutly defended his actions in the Watergate scandal Wednesday, declared the case is "water under the bridge" and said he will not resign but rather will get on with the "people's business."

Standing in the hot California sunshine for 50 minutes as he held his first news conference in five months, the President also:

—Announced that the lone remaining member of his original Cabinet, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, has resigned effective Sept. 3 and that he will nominate presidential assistant Henry A. Kissinger to succeed him.

—Voiced confidence in Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's integrity, assailed "outrageous leaks" on the investigation involving the vice president, said he personally had ordered an investigation of the leaks and would fire anyone found responsible.

But the bulk of the questions asked at the nationally televised news conference held on a parking lot at the Western White House office complex dealt with ramifications of the Watergate scandal that has plunged Nixon's popularity in the polls to the lowest point of any president in 20 years.

In responding to the dozen Watergate-related questions, the President made these major points:

—He predicted that two former high-ranking aides, H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, would eventually be exonerated for their actions in the case.

—Said he taped conversations of White House meetings and telephone calls because he wanted an accurate record, agreed that such taping "is not something that particularly appeals to me," and said it wouldn't be done again. He repeated he would not turn over the tapes to Watergate investigators unless ordered to do so by the Supreme Court.

—Insisted he tried to "get the truth out" in the months following the June 1972 bugging of Democratic national headquarters but that until March of this year was told by since-fired White House counsel John W. Dean III that there was not "a scintilla of evidence" that anyone on the White House staff was involved.

—Acknowledged he met briefly with U.S. District Judge W. Matthew Byrne Jr., while Byrne was presiding at the Pentagon Papers trial, but said the controversial case was not discussed and that no attempt was made to influence outcome of the since-dismissed charges.

—Said "I would have blown my stack" if former campaign director and Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell had given him the facts of the case, as Mitchell said he would have done if the President had asked.

—Repeated that he views as "illegal, unauthorized and completely deplorable" the burglary of the office of the psychiatrist of Pentagon Papers figure Daniel Ellsberg by a squad directed by White House aides. He said under former President John F. Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson "burglarizing of this type" took place "on a very large scale," but did not elaborate.

—Said his Democratic predecessors at the White House authorized far more wiretaps than he had, and added that he wished wiretaps had detected the plot to assassinate Kennedy, a murder he said followed "a terrible breakdown in our protective security."

The news conference was held as part of Nixon's campaign to overcome the Watergate scandal's impact on his administration. As he fielded questions, at times joking with and at other times bristling with newsmen, the President himself shifted to foreign and domestic issues.

"No, I shall not resign," the President declared. He added that he will "use every day of those 3½ years" left in his term "trying to get the people of the United States to recognize, whatever mistakes we have made, in the long run this administration" made the world safer for their children and made their lives better at home.

He made critical reference to the "constant barrage" of news media reports on the Watergate scandal, then declared:

"Watergate is an episode I deeply deplore. If I were running the campaign rather than trying to run the country and particularly the foreign policy of the country it would never have happened."

But, he continued, Watergate is "water under the bridge—it's gone" and now is the time to get on with the "business of the people."

Proposal Means Food Price Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council issued proposed new regulations Wednesday for controlling food prices but acknowledged they will bring another round of price increases in supermarkets.

"We expect there will be some price increases at the consumer level," said Council director John T. Dunlop.

He added, however, the intention of the new Phase 4 regulations is to "keep prices below what they otherwise would be."

Dunlop also said that both government and private forecasters of U.S. crop production and food prices have "done quite poorly" in the past and he called for an overhaul of forecasting methods.

The regulations issued Wednesday are to go into effect on Sept. 12, although Dunlop said they are subject to revision after a period of public comment ending Sept. 4.

He said the new regulations will generally permit all justified costs to be passed on to consumers but will prohibit price increases for additional profits.

These are somewhat similar to regulations placed into effect already for many other industries.

They differ, however, from the present temporary food regulations, which provide only for price increases to reflect increased food costs at the producer level, called raw agricultural costs.

"We continue to strive for a realistic balance between giving incentive for producers to bring more food to market and minimizing the rise in food prices that consumers pay," Dunlop said at a news briefing.

William N. Walker, the council's general counsel, said the regulations will "require substantial cost absorption on the part of the food wholesalers and retailers."

There are separate regulations for retailers and wholesalers, restaurants and other food service organizations and food manufacturers and processors.

Briefly, the regulations provide the following:

—Food retailers and wholesalers may continue to pass their increased food costs into food prices but will have to absorb from profits some of their other increasing costs, such as labor and transportation costs.

—Restaurants and other food service organizations may pass through into prices all cost increases on a dollar-for-dollar basis.

—Food manufacturers and processors may increase prices to reflect all ingredient costs—food costs—but major firms must notify the council in advance of any increases because of other costs.

The council also confirmed Wednesday that the current price ceiling will be lifted from beef on Sept. 12 at the same time the new food regulations go into effect.

When the price freeze was lifted from the food industry on July 18 and replaced by the present temporary regulations, prices increased sharply both at the wholesale and retail levels.

Dunlop said that while there would be another increase in prices when the new regulations take effect, he would "be surprised" if they are as big as the July price rise.

In another development, the Agriculture Department said the amount paid food middlemen by consumers last year increased by 2.4 per cent to a record $77.2 billion. The increase, however, did not match the 10 per cent increase received by farmers.

Elevator Traps City Policeman

A Lincoln policeman, Richard E. Kohles of 2751 Washington, stepped into the County-City Building police elevator Wednesday night, began reading a report and was whistling "Born Free" when the elevator jammed. He was trapped for about 25 minutes.

33 Witnesses Back Caril Fugate's Freedom Bid

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Her case bolstered by supporting testimony from 33 witnesses, including the state's corrections director, Caril Ann Fugate Wednesday took her bid for freedom to the State Board of Paroles.

Dressed in white, Miss Fugate, now a composed woman of 30 who has lived more than half of her life in prison, told the board's three members that her efforts to gain freedom in the courts have been exhausted.

"I pursued my case in the courts until the last door was closed," she said. "If the purpose of an institution is to rehabilitate," she said, "I feel the institution has done as much as it can."

Miss Fugate sat directly across a table from the board members to plead her case in a hearing at the State Penitentiary.

Chairman John Greenholtz said the board will announce Friday whether it will approve a request to present to the Board of Pardons her appeal for commutation of her life sentence for murder to a definite term of years, thereby making her eligible for conditional parole by the Board of Paroles. The outlook for that initial approval appeared favorable.

"She stood up real well under our questions," Greenholtz told newsmen after the three-hour hearing.

Repeating a phrase he had used twice before during the hearing, the former prison official suggested: "To know Caril is to like her."

"She impressed me, as she always has, as to her sincerity."

Miss Fugate has been imprisoned at the Women's Reformatory at York since 1959 for her part in the 1958 murder rampage of Charles Starkweather, who was executed 14 years ago. Ten persons were murdered in that spree, and Starkweather was accused of an 11th killing prior to that.

Five persons — including four relatives of two of the victims — testified against Miss Fugate's plea.

Mrs. Robert Jensen of Bennet, mother of Bob Jensen, killed at age 17, read in a trembling voice a handwritten statement suggesting that 15 years of imprisonment is not punishment which fits the crime.

"It isn't long enough for any of us," Mrs. Mabel King Swale, the mother of Carol King, a teenager who died with Jensen, told the board.

"I think she should stay there (in York)," Miss Fugate left the hearing before any witnesses were escorted into the board room.

Testifying in her behalf were the pastor and 20 members of the Church of the Nazarene in York, where Miss Fugate works in the nursery during church services; a Michigan couple who learned of her case when they saw a network television documentary, and a former fellow inmate at York, who was accompanied by her mother.

State Corrections Director Vic Walker urged the board to "give serious consideration" to Miss Fugate's request.

"You won't find a woman (prisoner) in the U.S. who has made the cooperative effort that this girl has," Walker said. "She has responded to every opportunity."

"If anyone, by their behavior and cooperation, has earned consideration, Caril has. We're not capable of giving her any more help at this time."

Earlier, Miss Fugate had told the board that she decided when she entered the institution at age

15 (she was 14 when she accompanied Starkweather on the rampage) to "take advantage of . . . whatever they had to offer."

If she gains parole — which could come within a year should she win subsequent favorable action from both the Parole and Pardon Board — she has a job and a place to live, Miss Fugate said.

Her pastor, the Rev. William Shipman, said she would like to go to California.

Her behavior at the institution and her work in the church, especially with children, indicate that "she'd make a real contribution to society," he said.

"I was against her until I met her," Mrs. Lynn Moore of York said. "But now I know she's a changed person."

Donna Sacher of Omaha said Miss Fugate helped rehabilitate her when she was at the York institution. "She more or less straightened my head out," she said.

Yvonne King of Lincoln, who is married to Carol King's brother, said Miss Fugate should be imprisoned for the rest of her life.

"I think she knew what she was doing," Mrs. King said.

Board member E. M. Rowley complimented Miss Fugate for her record at York — "never a disciplinary report in 15 years."

Her accumulated "good time" has brought her equivalent prison term to 25 years, Greenholtz said. If she should subsequently gain commutation of her sentence to a minimum of 25 years, she could be eligible for immediate parole.

The Pardon Board is composed of Gov. J. James Exon, Attorney General Clarence Meyer and Secretary of State Allen Beermann.

But, first, the initial decision with the Parole Board. And, in the words of Greenholtz, "anything we do will in some people's eyes be wrong."

Caril Fugate . . . heads for hearing.

San Clemente, Calif. — President Nixon announced Wednesday he would nominate Henry A. Kissinger to replace William P. Rogers as secretary of state. In making the announcement, Nixon said he had accepted Rogers' resignation with "personal regret." The change will make Kissinger the administration's undisputed foreign policy chief and end the awkward dualism in which the secretary of state has been overshadowed by the White House national security adviser. Israeli Leaders Back 'Hard Line'

Jerusalem — The top government leaders of Israel's ruling Labor Party have approved a tentative "hard line" campaign platform calling for increased Israeli occupation of captured

Arab territory. The plan, which is expected to become official government policy after the Oct. 29 election, provides for additional Israeli settlements in the captured territory as well as land sales to private individuals.

Nixon Confronts Newsmen

San Clemente, Calif. — President Nixon, facing newsmen at his first news conference since the Watergate disclosures, acknowledged that the scandals have hampered his ability to govern, but said he had never considered resigning and would serve out his term with the full authority of a strong presidency. (More on Page 1.)

Nixon Lawyer, Cox Clash

Washington — President Nixon's lawyer and the special

Watergate prosecutor clashed in open court over whether the President has the right to withhold the White House tapes from a grand jury. After two hours of pointed argument on the question, Chief Judge John J. Sirica reserved decision on the dispute and said he hoped to hand down a ruling within a week. (More on Page 2.)

Questions Were On Watergate

San Clemente, Calif. — It was an idyllic scene, overlooking the Pacific beaches where the President seeks tranquility in solitary walks. But the setting apparently failed to lighten Nixon's mood as he came face to face with newsmen for his first news conference in more than five months. He tried to focus attention on foreign policy, but the questions were on Watergate.

Justice Department Leaks Probed

Washington — Declaring his confidence is Vice President Agnew, President Nixon said he had ordered the attorney general to investigate the Justice Department and fire anyone found to be involved in leaking information about the investigation of Agnew.

Counterfeit Ticket Ring Uncovered

New York — A transatlantic traffic in counterfeit airline tickets that may have been used to fly at half fare was disclosed by authorities here. The disclosure came as federal and local officials pressed an investigation into a mushrooming traffic in stolen airline tickets that have been linked to organized crime.

Lawyer Argues President Is Beyond Reach Of Court Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's lawyer argued Wednesday that the President is beyond the reach of a court order compelling the production of White House tapes demanded by Watergate prosecutors.

Charles Alan Wright said Nixon himself is not above the law, but that, as President, he alone has the right to decide if the national interest requires that the tapes be kept secret.

Arguing to the contrary, special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox asserted that the President has no special right to reject a demand for evidence vital to criminal prosecution.

In two hours of polite debate, U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica heard the two lawyers, both recognized as authorities on the Constitution, outline the issues of the historic confrontation between the executive and judicial branches of government.

Sirica said he will decide within a week whether to order production of the tape recordings of presidential conversations with a number of figures involved in the Watergate investigation.

Prior to Wednesday's oral confrontation, the lawyers had submitted lengthy briefs during the past weeks setting out their positions.

The tapes in question concern nine private conversations Nixon had with aides. The conversations were referred to during the Senate Watergate hearings, which also produced the disclosure that Nixon's offices are wired to record all his conversations.

Cox and the Senate panel both asked for certain tapes and Nixon refused. Cox then went to court, leading to Wednesday's confrontation. The Senate committee also has initiated court action to get the tapes.

Regardless of Sirica's decision, the question is certain to be appealed ultimately to the Supreme Court which has never ruled on the bounds of a President's claim of executive privilege.

"We do not contend for a moment that Richard M. Nixon is above the law," Wright declared to Sirica and a courtroom packed with some 200 hushed spectators and scores of newsmen.

He went on to note that the Constitution confers upon the President certain powers and added: "These do not put the man above the law. But they do limit the extent to which the law can make its force felt against the man who holds that office."

Wright said the tapes contain "national security material so highly sensitive that he (Nixon) does not feel free to hint even to me what it is."

In reply, Cox said that Nixon's "duty to produce evidence is a firm legal duty and involves no judgment on his part."

He reached back to the 16th century to quote an opinion cited to England's King James that "the King ought not to be under any man but he is under God and the law."

Each side argued that the decision will have widespread impact on future cases. Cox said that denying the tapes to the Watergate grand jury would authorize any department head in the executive branch to deny demands for confidential information.

He cited court rulings which have compelled the production of documents from others in the executive branch.

On the other hand, Wright argued that requiring production of the tapes would encourage future demands for confidential White House documents and would cause the 400 other federal district judges to compel their production.

The result, said Wright, would be gross violation of the confidentiality of presidential communications.

Turning to another point, Wright asserted that it rests only with the executive branch to decide whether a criminal prosecution is of prime importance to the national interest.

"Getting to the truth of Watergate is a goal of great worth," he acknowledged. "But... there may well be times when there are other national interests more important than the fullest administration of criminal justice."

That argument, Cox replied, is an attempt to "fudge up" the issue.

"If he (Nixon) wishes to leave the matter to the courts, he should leave the matter to the courts," the prosecutor continued. "If he wishes to dismiss the case, if he has the power, he should dismiss the case and the people will know where the responsibility lies."

Judge Sirica asked Wright if he was arguing that Nixon has the power "to say 'I'm going to withdraw this investigation. Let's get back to the business of the nation, so to speak.'"

Wright replied, "I do not claim any such power on behalf of the President."

Responding to another question from the judge, Wright said he was "instructed to say the President is not willing to submit the tapes" to a judge for his private inspection to determine which portions, if any, should be turned over to the grand jury.

Cox said he reluctantly addressed the subpoena to the President himself only after Nixon declared that he had taken personal control of the tapes.

The issue "weighs heavily on me," he said. "No man would feel greater relief than I would if the recordings were to prove the falsity of the accusations against the respondent (Nixon)."

However, he said, "we think the present case is strong reason to believe the integrity of the executive office has been corrupted, although the extent of the rot is not clear."

Sirica remarked on the absence of precedent for a subpoena directed at a president, prompting Cox to respond, "I would submit that the subpoena was not simply an invitation to dinner."

Pope Advocates
Latin Liturgy

©The New York Times

Rome — Pope Paul VI Wednesday advocated a return to traditional Latin and Gregorian chants in the Roman Catholic liturgy.

"Many have asked that for all nations the Latin and Gregorian chants of the Gloria, the Credo, the Sanctus and the Agnus Dei be preserved," he said, referring to parts of the Mass, during a general audience at his summer residence near here. "God wish that it may be so. We must study how."

The pontiff's remarks indicated a possible reversal of church policy since the Vatican Council of 1962-1965. At that time, the use of modern languages instead of Latin in the liturgy was approved in an effort to simplify and modernize the Mass.

McGovern Brings Up Impeachment

Washington (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said Wednesday President Nixon's refusal to release the Watergate tapes leave Congress with little alternative but to consider impeaching him to determine the truth behind the scandal.

"Neither I nor any other member of the United States Senate relishes the thought of impeachment," said McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee who lost to Nixon in a landslide last November.

"We'd like to believe the President is innocent. We would like to believe he would cooperate with the constitutional procedures of our country so we can avoid the possibility of impeachment."

But McGovern said Nixon's televised Watergate speech a week ago had served to strengthen his thought that impeachment might prove to be the only solution.

McGovern cited the President's refusal to "answer in a point-by-point rebuttal the serious charges which have been made against him and also the glaring contradictions in the testimony of some of his top aides.

"Somebody has not been telling the truth," he said.

"If the President persists in (resisting) giving either the courts or the Congress the information and the evidence that we need on which to base a sound judgment, then he himself almost leaves us no alternative except to consider impeachment," McGovern said.

"It is only through that route than we can demand the evidence that he is now withholding," he said.

Agnew Fund Raising Group Named In Indictment

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The Salute to Ted Agnew Night committee that last year sponsored a fund raiser for the vice president was named Wednesday in an indictment charging violations of Maryland election laws. Seven key committee members were named as co-conspirators but were not indicted.

The single four-count indictment grew out of the concealment of a $49,900 loan which the National Finance Committee to Re-elect the President gave to the Agnew group, which allegedly used the funds to inflate the proceeds of the affair.

In Annapolis, State's Attorney Warren B. Duckett Jr. told a news conference that with only the committee indicted, the only potential penalty is a maximum fine of $4,000. He said that had any individuals been indicted they could have been liable for up to one year in jail and a fine of up to $1,000 for each count.

"We concluded that the fairest and most justifiable method would be to indict the committee as an entity rather than as individuals," Duckett said.

He stressed that Agnew himself was not implicated in the grand jury investigation which was begun after reporters discovered that a $49,900 contribution from the national Committee to Re-elect the President had been disguised for almost a year as personal contributions from 31 individuals.

Housing Authority Chief Says Criticism Baseless

Lincoln Housing Authority Chairman D. G. Alford Wednesday charged that recent criticism of the authority is "without fact" and can be interpreted "as an attempt to discredit" the agency.

Responding to charges leveled this week by Bea Richmond of the City-Wide Tenants Association, and J. J. Plant, an unsuccessful candidate for the City Council, Alford stated that the Housing Authority has one of the best programs in the nation.

Plant questioned the sale of homes at the former air base, while Richmond and other representatives of low income-groups charged mismanagement of the authority's operation in general.

No Complaints

Alford pointed out that as late as Aug. 21, the Department of Housing and Urban Development's office in Omaha had received no official complaints against the Housing Authority.

Additionally, he pointed out that the General Services Administration has lauded local of-

Boxcar Riders Say 'It's A Ball So Far'

Laurel, Mont. (UPI) — "So far it's been a ball," Charles Vyskocil said Wednesday night as he and his wife completed one-half of their 1,838-mile journey to Auburn, Wash., in a railroad livestock car.

Vyskocil, taking eight horses and his household belongings from Lincoln, Neb., to Washington, is traveling under a century-old law which permits a man to ride free on a railroad as long as he is transporting livestock.

Vyskocil's wife is paying an extra $10 for the privilege of riding with her husband on the three-day trip and their three children are following the freight in a passenger train.

"So far it's been a ball," Vyskocil said at the Owl Cafe while eating his first hot meal of the day. He and his wife have dined largely on k-rations so far.

"We made chocolate pie in a bowl and have spent a lot of time reminiscing about the trip.

"My folks made the same trip in 1912 when they moved from Nebraska to Montana where they homesteaded. We've spent most of our journey thinking about their experiences then and wondering what they went through and how we compare with them."

Vyskocil, a disabled World War II veteran who is recovering from open heart surgery, said one of the reasons for making the journey on the Burlington Northern Railroad is for their children — Loree, 14; Barry, 13; and Gina Marie, 6.

"We believe if the children have a taste of what their forefathers went through, they will look at things with a little more reverence and respect," Mrs. Vyskocil said.

In all, the family will pay $914 to transport the furniture and horses to Washington.

The railroad has installed extra springs under the boxcar and the car is also being moved just ahead of the caboose to cut down on fumes from the diesel engine.

Mobile Homes Wrecked By Wind

Chadron (AP) — What was described as tornadic-type winds struck west of here early Wednesday evening during a heavy thunderstorm.

Area residents reported heavy rain and marble-size hail fell. Winds caused an estimated $50,000 damage at Chadron Mobile Home Sales, about one mile west of the city on U.S. Highway 20. One of the owners of the sales lot said three mobile homes were destroyed.

Defect Possible In Chrysler-Built Cars

©The New York Times

Washington — The federal government warned Wednesday of a possible safety defect in 2.5 million passenger cars built by the Chrysler Corp.

In a special bulletin, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said that at least 838 electrical power failures had reportedly resulted from a malfunctioning part, called a connector, in the automobiles.

It said that one person had been killed and one injured in an accident attributed to the suspected defect.

Failure of the connector, the agency said, causes the loss of ignition and consequently of engine power as well as the loss of lights and power assists for steering and brakes.

Cars equipped with possibly defective connectors were identified by the agency as 1969 through 1973 models of Chrysler Newports, New Yorkers and Town and Country 300s, Dodge Monacos and Polaras and Plymouth Furys and Suburbans.

Gilbert L. Watson, director of the agency's Office of Consumer Affairs, said the accident, blamed on a malfunctioning connector, had occurred on a four-lane highway in the Midwest late last year. He said the 1972 model Plymouth station wagon stalled in heavy traffic and was hit in the rear by a Cadillac.

Issuance of special safety bulletins often precedes a formal finding of a safety hazard and an order for the manufacturer to notify all owners by certified letter. In issuing such notifications, manufacturers usually offer to pay for the correction of defects in cars taken to dealers.

In Detroit, Chrysler Corp. said it was cooperating with the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

In its bulletin, the federal agency said replacement of defective or deteriorated connectors was "imperative." It also asked owners who experienced failures of connectors to report them to its Office of Consumer Affairs in Washington.

It said such information was "vital to the ongoing investigation of this matter."

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Just about the time you get to thinking that racial matters in the country seem to be getting better, you are jolted back into reality. It has seemed lately that things might be better simply because there has been so little noticeable unrest.

We have not read or heard a great deal about racial problems in any part of the country, although a speaker now and then comes along to tell us that the situation is not good. Such an appearance of calm, however, can be most deceiving and apparently is deceiving.

This past weekend on a visit to Kansas City, Mo., this writer was impressed with a large section of that city occupied totally by blacks. For mile upon mile you could travel through this area of decay and deterioration. The rot taking place includes both business and residential property.

Front yards were either barren or full of uncut weeds and litter of one kind or another was prevalent. More business fronts were boarded up than were open and a sprinkling of places were obviously fit subjects for condemnation.

A few poor whites were seen, too, but nothing in comparison to the mile after mile of dilapidation in the black area. It was a most disheartening thing and left one with little confidence in the equality of which we so blithely speak.

Just yesterday the St. Louis Post Dispatch carried an article on conditions in the black section of that community and it was a most discouraging piece. It was a story of high crime rates, of fear and of lack of hope.

And then you think about tomorrow, when the children raised in such an atmosphere will become adults. They will come out of an environment that has bred hostility and violence in them, rather than respect and cooperation.

When they turn to drugs and to crime, the white community will condemn them and condemn a lot of the entire race. And you think about Lincoln, Nebraska, and you wish to God that something different could be done here.

But you shouldn't get the wrong idea. Within the black areas of both Kansas City and St. Louis are many fine people. They are alarmed themselves at the state of affairs and they are apprehensive about the future of their children.

But what can they do? Crime in those areas is a highly complex sociological problem and opportunity to leave such areas does not come knocking on the door. And it is hard to overcome within the home all the adverse influences that come from so many other sources.

In Lincoln you read about black problems with the law and about low-income problems of housing, employment, etc., that seem to defy solution. Why is there not the good will within the community between various groups that could solve such problems?

Why do low-income spokesmen have an issue with the Lincoln Housing Authority? Who is to be indicted for such a situation and why does it hang on for so long?

Reasonable people appear unable to come to any understanding of the issues that separate them, much less any appreciation of one another's plight. Certainly, we have no magic answer to all this but we know that the responsibility exists to try to meet the problem.

Is it indifference, distrust, ignorance, prejudice, economics or what that stands in our way? Whatever it is, a far greater effort to change needs to be made than has been made to date.

PHYLLIS BATTELLE Electronic Watchdog Proves Its Usefulness

NEW YORK — A specialist in urban crime predicts that, within a few years, the violence rate in U.S. cities could drop sharply.

On the face of it, this sounds wonderful, but the face is false.

"The way the trend is going," explains Norman Schlaff, president of a N.Y. communications firm, "our cities will be what might be termed 'frontier states,' where every citizen will be armed — either with a weapon, or with a means for calling on fast help in event of attack."

Faced with that choice, he believes the people and the law-makers will of course adopt the latter. And his firm, Norcon Electronics Inc., along with hundreds of cooperative competitors, are coming out almost daily with sophisticated equipment to protect man from his fellow man.

Schlaff's vision of a safer city in the 1980s is one of expanded police facilities, each incorporating a monitor to receive "help" signals from citizens on the street or in their homes.

These "help" signals would take the form of wireless transmitters about the size of fountain pens that each person could carry. When there was trouble, a press on the "pen" would activate a receiver (located, perhaps, on the city's lamp posts), and the receiver would instantly relay the distress message to the nearest precinct — where the monitor would pinpoint the exact location of the SOS sender.

Following several years of violence, with countless assaults and muggings and rapes of teachers in New York's schools, Norcon recently installed pilot preventive communications projects in a pair of them: South Shore High in Brooklyn, and

'Eventually It's Bound To Get Tired'

First Post-Watergate Election

We don't take a great deal of stock in the special congressional election in Maryland Tuesday as a useful public opinion barometer in the Watergate matter. And we wouldn't have taken a great deal of stock in it had it turned out any different than it did.

The election was for a House seat vacated by the suicide of a Maryland Republican implicated in the use of unreported campaign funds. It was the first election since the beginning of the Watergate hearings and the announcement of Vice President Agnew's involvement in a Maryland grand jury kickback probe.

After the votes were counted Tuesday night, it was found that the GOP had held on to the seat with the narrow victory of conservative Republican Robert Bauman over conservative Democrat Frederick Malkus, a state senator. The election results could not have been easily predicted from the factors surrounding that particular situation. Press reports noted that the winner was much younger than the loser, that although Democrats outnumber Republicans in the district by more than 2-1, the GOP has held the seat for a decade, that the candidates had concentrated on local issues during their campaign and that the public seemed apathetic to the situation.

Bauman said his election showed that Watergate "is not the issue nationally that some people think it is." We think what it showed is simply that Bauman appealed to just a few more voters than his opponent did.

We never have thought that those millions of Americans properly appalled at the conduct of certain members of the Nixon administration would thirst for the recall of Republican incumbents from all offices they hold or would inveigh against Republican candidates as a class or would want to drive the GOP to extinction. The voters don't want to do that, but Watergate is still a national issue.

As an issue it would have an impact, we suspect, if Richard Nixon could run for president again. And it will have a positive impact on the future election prospects of those associated with the investigation of the scandals and it will be a factor in the 1974 congressional and state elections in campaigns in which improper campaign practices or other alleged or real immoral activities are issues themselves. And it will probably have a bearing on the nominations for president by the two major parties in 1976.

But what is far more important is that the "Watergate" issue makes people realize what abuses of power took place so that laws are passed and standards set to prohibit future abuses. We are going through that process now. It shouldn't be used, and we're confident it won't be, as the base for a voter vendetta against Republican candidates who had no connection with such abuses.

'New' Sunday Policy

At first glance, it appears that the newly-adopted Lancaster County Board policy concerning Sunday beer sales would pave the way for the approval of Sunday beer business applications on the part of licensees who can show themselves to be good operators.

The policy says that all applications for liquor and beer licenses in the county will be reviewed on their own merit and that such factors as financial status, credit and character ratings and previous business experience will be considered. This means that the good operator should have no trouble getting an okay.

JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON — The government of the United States has often been described as a kind of organized disorder, but lately the normal confusion has declined into an illogical and sometimes even into an irrational babble of astonishing contradictions.

Last week, President Nixon was appealing to the nation over TV to forget the past and settle down to the positive programs of the future, but this week in New Orleans he was raking over all the old arguments of the war, engaging in an angry shoving match on TV with his own press secretary, and fussing with his own Secret Service for taking prudent precautions to protect his own life.

When he finished his latest report to the people last week, he flew off to his house in Florida for the weekend, then took off for New Orleans to address the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and is now at his house in San Clemente where he intends to stay for a couple of weeks.

Meanwhile, in his absence, we have a public row between Vice President Agnew and Attorney General Elliot Richardson, with the vice president accusing the Department of Justice of trying to indict and convict him in the press and demanding on TV that Richardson put Justice Department officials under oath to discover the source of the leaks.

The atmosphere now is poisonous with rumors that Nixon's people leaked the news that Agnew was being investigated for criminal activity in order to divert attention from the Watergate to the vice president, and even that the alleged assassination conspiracy in New Orleans was blown up in order to create public sympathy for the President.

The President's last two speeches illustrate confusion of thought and purpose. In the first, the President concluded with a plea to the people for understanding, for rededication to "the principles of decency, honor and respect for our institutions," and for "a commitment by all of us to show a renewed respect for the mutual restraints that are the mark of a free and a civilized society."

But less than a week later, after condemning those who put their ends ahead of their means, he was proclaiming that his objective of peace justified the bombing of Cambodia and keeping this secret from the American people. And while calling for a new spirit of conciliation at home, he was attacking those who criticized his policies and asserting that he was not only right in the secret bombing but that he would do it all over again in the same circumstances.

He simply dismisses the protests against the bombing by saying they are "absurd" and defends the secrecy by saying the bombings were disclosed, not to the leaders of Congress, but to "the appropriate congressional leaders," meaning those who favored his policies in the military affairs committee.

He sees no conflict in this with his statement in the TV speech that the abuses of Watergate "resulted from the assumption by those involved that their cause placed them beyond the reach of those rules that apply to other persons . . ."

No conflict in his refusal to hand over any incriminating evidence out of the Watergate tapes with his statement "far from trying to hide the facts, my effort throughout has been to discover the facts and to lay those facts before the appropriate law-enforcement authorities . . ."

No conflict in his appeal for "confidentiality" with the admitted fact that he was bugging the conversations of his visitors without their knowledge, no conflict in his appeal for privacy in the relations between lawyer

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

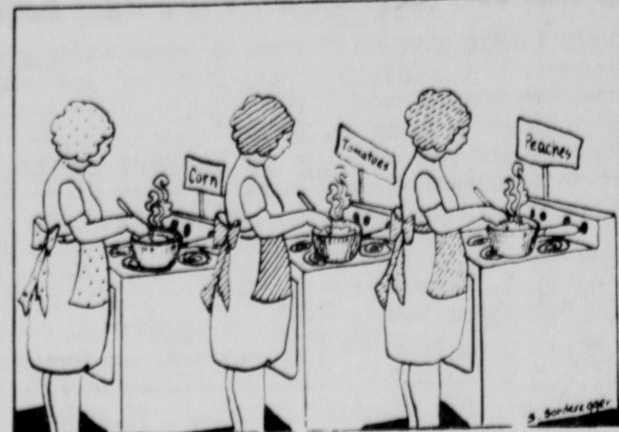

This morning the electric light wires were lined with swallows sitting four inches apart making the wire look like barb wire strung high in the air, the swallows making the sharp barbs on the wire.

Most of them are young swallows hatched this past summer in the barn. They are learning to fly. Some of them are yet quite clumsy in their flight although they are agile enough to catch their food on the wing. How I do like to see them catching those flying insects. Since we have no martins to keep the insect population down, the swallows will do very well.

My days have been filled with the canning tasks . . . mainly peaches. Two trees of the Hale variety have amply supplied us with several bushels of the sun-ripened fruit. Some have gone into the freezer but most of them have been canned thus far. We have given many of them away since tomatoes and corn also have matured at the same time. It would take three cooks with three pots busily engaged for several days to take care of all the fruit plus other garden produce.

The countryside looks like a familiar storybook land of green patchwork. We certainly have been favored with a good growing year. The milo is green and heading in abundance and the corn has remained green all season along with the pastures and roadsides. It truly is rewarding to see such greenery and lushness about us this time of year.

This morning a dark cloud rolled across the land with much lightning and thunder. After the shower, the clouds remained for some time with a cool, almost autumn-like touch. It did not take much imagination to remind me that fall is very near despite the greenness of summer.

I closed the windows in the house for the wind seemed almost chilly. By late afternoon I will be wishing that I could push some magic button to bring back some of the cool breeze. Before the day is over, we are to get temperatures around the ninety-degree mark.

Many farm families are raising a second brood of chickens this year to counteract the meat shortage. One farm woman told me she could not get chickens until the first of October, ordering the first week in August. However, if the weather is anywhere normal, the chicks can still reach maturity and eating stage before winter becomes too harsh.

In fact, I remember when I was girl at home, there would always be some old hen that would appear in late fall with a bunch of chickens hatched in the straw stack. They would run about in late autumn, seeming to grow twice as fast as spring chicks.

How delicious they would taste in late November after we had forgotten how good spring chickens had been. They always seemed to be so meaty and firm.

In fact it was a rare year when we did not have a brood of late chickens. Oftentimes the young chicks would be very wild like some kind of a game bird.

One brood I remember never came about the farmyard. They roosted in the row of hedge trees that grew down the south slope of the roadside. The old hen was very crafty in hiding them and we could never spy on her. Their daily forays were far from the house down along the creek or the pasture.

When the time for eating them came, we couldn't catch them so my father had to shoot them with a rifle from some distance. That has always remained in my memory for they were truly fowl of the wild. It didn't take long for domestic fowl to revert back to its wild life. Perhaps we are not as far from the jungle as we would like to believe.

Work Ethic

Lincoln, Neb.

In a country which gives such immense lip service to the "work ethic," the use of the terms, bus boy, delivery boy, house boy, lot boy, etc. shows the hypocrisy of the work ethic promoters.

The reality is that the promoters of the work ethic do no work. They merely con others into doing it. In the 19th Century, Orientals were worked to death digging tunnels for railroad financiers and received no pay.

Blacks were worked to death as slaves. The attitudes which the financiers and slave-holders had toward their workers carried over to wage-earners and still exists today, as indicated by use of the terms mentioned. As long as such terms are used and the attitudes exist, the work ethic is a lie and no one need expect to have a stable employment situation or a sound economy.

With Keynesian economics, the little man gets poorer, but the rich will also be hurt in the long-run.

John Kennedy wanted to get the country moving. The way to do that is to end the hypocrisy of the work ethic and make it real by giving adequate pay and proper dignity to the worker.

Ordinary Humans

With reference to the letter, "Gay Life," in the Aug. 20 Star, I am going to have to agree with the person who wrote that letter. The reason is because I know how it is. In my work, I too mangle and work with straight people. I also agree and know it isn't just university students, but that there are also some gay people among the older men. Some look down on us as if we were dangerous, but we are just human like everyone else.

I have been gay since I was in the fifth grade, and must say, it is nothing to be ashamed of. I hope others of this class of people, my fellow gays, speak out if there should be others who think like a few hypocrites I have heard.

We want only to be accepted as ordinary human beings. In our everyday life, we try to do our best to do our jobs well.

So for the "Gay Life" letter in the Aug. 20 Star, I say, well spoken, and I too sign this letter

Then Congress insists that we produce more per hour worked so that our goods will be cheaper. Then they try to produce less themselves by a law that gives them a $12,500 raise automatically unless they vote to turn it down.

Was George III more unbearable to his 18th Century colonists than Congress has been to us, their master?

Idolatry Of Privacy

David City, Neb.

President Nixon is seeking a political asylum behind "executive rights to privacy." This political privacy he has put above all other values and public interest. He would have us believe that his executive rights to privacy are a new altar or sanctuary of refuge from which he cannot be forcibly taken without sacrilege.

Eight months ago on January 22, 1973, the Supreme Court of the United States declared that a woman's rights to privacy are to be placed above the value, rights and interests of human life not yet born.

What people believe to be worthy of protection by threat of sacrilege, they implicitly believe to be God-like and divine. What people place above human life, they implicitly declare to be of God. The actual use of the word "God" is irrelevant.

Privacy — be it political or non-political — has become an idol.

Lincoln, Neb.

If a neighbor lets the weeds grow to such height that his house cannot be seen, should one in anger set a match to them? Let it be known unto the one that to strike a match could cause such a fire as to burn more than the neighbor's weeds. Therefore, be cautioned to cut the weeds one by one and let them lie where they fall so that the neighbor will see them and be repentant.

Should a mountain man looking contemptuously at the plush valley below spat his tobacco juice to poison the crop? Nay, nay! Let it be known to him that when the mountain streams run dry and the wild game is gone, it may become his lot to go to the valley in search of survival.

To err in the yes of man is to answer to man. To err in the eyes of God is to answer to God. They need not be the same.

LIFE BEGINS AT 40:
Advantages
Are Offered

By ROBERT PETERSON
Question: — "We're retiring next year and hope to visit all the 50 states. We want to curtail costs by avoiding motels and restaurants so we're thinking of buying a travel trailer. But some friends tell us they think a motor home makes more sense. What do you think?"

Answer: — A travel trailer is great for people who plan to stop for lengthy periods in one place. Once settled in a vacation area, they can detach the trailer and then buzz around for sightseeing in their own passenger car. A motor home is a combined car and trailer vehicle, similar to a bus. It is easier than a car and trailer to maneuver on the roads, since it's all one unit. Its chief disadvantage is that when you get to a scenic location and want to stay a while you can't disconnect the housing quarters from the car. Instead you have only this bulky vehicle for side trips and sightseeing, and you tend to miss the maneuverability of a regular passenger car. Both these vehicles offer advantages. Just try to decide which fits your needs.

Question: — "You never write about nasty mothers-in-law. But this is a topic that deserves exploration along with other problems we may face after 40. Arthritis can be cruel and non-fatal, but so can these gals. I'm a specialist on the topic because I've got the meanest, sharpest mother-in-law around. She's 71 and comes on quiet and lady-like, but when you get to know her she's all steel and bristle. She considers me several cuts beneath her socially and didn't want Beth to marry me. So even though we've been happily wed nearly a quarter century this shrew has yet to say anything to me that doesn't have overtones of criticism, suspicion, or sneering. Beth is on my side and takes the view her mother is sick. She says we must be gentle. But I'd like to give her a few gentle taps with a baseball bat. What can one do without getting arrested?"

Answer: — You can (1) grin and bear it, (2) tell her firmly she's not welcome at your house anymore, or (3) move to another community, out of arm's reach. This unsympathetic senior must have a psychological problem and probably deserves some tolerance. But you also deserve some peace of mind and if it were any problem I'd take No. 3.

Question: — "I went back to Ohio last Memorial Day to see my sister. I told her I wanted to put flowers on our parents' graves so we drove out to the old cemetery. I was shocked to see Carrie hadn't cut the grass or done any raking. The plot showed no loving care and the gravestone was at a 45-degree angle. To my amazement Carrie said she thought tending graves was ridiculous and she never went out there. How can a person be so callous? The more I think about it, the madder I get. Why would she act this way?"

Answer: — There are differing views on the value of tending cemetery lots. Many believe that the loving care we give memories in our hearts is more important than giving loving care to gravesites of the departed. Larger cemeteries offer basic care which at least cuts the grass and corrects damage and vandalism, but this is often not done in smaller communities. You probably can't change your sister so try to understand her point of view. If you feel strongly about this try to hire someone in that community to visit the gravesite once or twice a year and make sure it is tended.

Colonial Townhouse Action Put Off

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The City-County Planning Commission Wednesday sidestepped action on a controversial plan to construct townhouses on the Colonial Golf Course.

Planners recommended that the City Council defer action until a decision is made on whether to purchase the 12.4-acre site for a park.

That action came only after two other motions, one recommending denial and one recommending approval, went down to defeat.

Commissioners Bob Allington, Art Duerschner, Thelma Miller, Louis Shackelford and Jerome Warner voted for deferral, while G. E. Deitemeyer, Bruce Nims and George David opposed that delay. Chairman George Williamson declared a conflict of interest and did not vote.

Residents Opposed

At a public hearing last week, Meadowlane residents lobbied in full force for defeat of the plan for 46 condominium units proposed by Richard Watson.

Residents pointed out that the Comprehensive Plan calls for open space development on the site at Skyway Rd. and O. The Park and Recreation Board has gone on record urging the city to buy the property.

The commission also endorsed purchasing the property for park land.

Office Building

In another split vote the commission approved the application of Farm Bureau Insurance Co. of Nebraska for a zoning change to construct a home office building at 1st and Superior. The application was amended from G Local Business to F Restricted.

Commissioners Allington, Nims and Williamson opposed the change of zone from A-2 Single Family. Planning Director Doug Brogren also had recommended denial of the plan, pointing out that commercial development at that site would hinder residential growth.

The commission also deferred action one month on the preliminary and final plat of the Cornhusker Industrial Plaza, at 20th and Cornhusker Hwy.

Public Works Director Bob Obering urged the commission to make a number of changes in the plat, saying he could visualize a number of problems arising similar to problems encountered with the Rentworth Industrial Plaza, at 48th and Old Cheney Rd.

Widening Urged

To insure that industrial oriented traffic moves easily through the plaza and along adjacent 20th and Fairfield, Obering recommended that a planned cul-de-sac be widened to 80 feet to allow semi-trucks to maneuver, that the pavement width be increased to 44 feet and that No. 20th and Fairfield be widened to 80 feet.

Obering pointed out that plans are on the drawing board to make 20th a major access road to Cornhusker Hwy.

In further action the commission approved the application of Douglas Kluender for a zoning change to allow law offices in a former fraternity house at 12th and H.

The commission also:

- Plat — Approved the preliminary and final plat of Johnathon Park Estates, south of Roca Rd. and west of So. 64th.
- Changes of Zone — Approved application of Henningsen Equipment from AA Rural to H-2 Highway Commercial; at West O, west on Interstate 80 exit ramp.
- Approved application of Earl Carter Co. from D Multiple to K Light Industry, between 19th and 20th south of S.
- Approved application of Herman Thompson from AA Rural to A Residential, Holland.

Special Permits

- Approved application of Great Plains, Inc., to construct care and retirement center, at 70th and Old Post Rd.
- Approved application of Viking Investment Corp. to operate day care center, 1400 Salside Dr.
- Approved application of Viking Investment Corp. to operate day care center, 4229 So. 40th.
- Approved application of Nebraska Real Estate Association and Lincoln Board of Realtors, to construct parking lot at 245 No. 36th.
- Approved application of Glen Jones to use existing building, at 1241 and 1245 No. 33rd.

Washington Group In Lincoln To Poll Pedestrian 'Attitudes'

Lincoln pedestrians: Don't be surprised if you're stopped and asked why you're walking around downtown instead of using some other form of transportation.

Until Friday, a study of pedestrian movement is being undertaken at two locations in the downtown area.

The study is being conducted by the Institute of Public Administration of Washington, D.C. for the Federal Highway Administration.

Transportation researcher Anna Karavangelos told The Star that the study will poll pedestrians on how convenient or inconvenient it is to walk around downtown.

'Attitudes'

The study "is mainly to get information on peoples' attitudes," she said.

Lincoln is one of five cities across the nation being studied by the institute, which is under contract with the Federal Highway Administration for a fee of $79,000.

Other cities being studied are

Boston, St. Petersburg, Cincinnati and Sacramento.

Karavangelos said Lincoln was chosen "because we wanted a state capitol. We looked around this part of the county and saw we had no city out there — and here we are."

Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger said his staff is providing assistance in locating the polling sites, statistical information on traffic counts and is supplying other information, such as his report on the downtown scramble system.

Mini-Malls

It was in that report that Holsinger remarked that if a decision is made to make O a pedestrian oriented street, that a series of mini-malls be constructed from 10th to 15th.

After the information is compiled, the Federal Highway Administration will use the information in analyzing how to improve programs, Karavangelos noted.

But, she pointed out "this is just a preliminary study. The whole area of pedestrian movement is an unknown field."

Holsinger added that results of the study will be made available to Lincoln officials and can be used in updating the Metropolitan Transportation Plan and in the Downtown Advisory Committee's update of the central business district study.

The interviews, which will take about ten minutes to complete, are being conducted by two Washington University in St. Paul students. About 500 such interviews will be conducted.

UNC Favored

United Nations (UPI) — Shizuo Saito, newly appointed Japanese ambassador to the United Nations, said his country was in favor of maintaining the U.N. Command (UNC) in South Korea.

Donation Limit Asked

Honolulu (UPI) — Mayor Frank Fasi urged the American Legion to push for laws prohibiting persons or companies from giving campaign contributions to politicians with whom they have done business in the previous two years.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Thursday

Leo has a natural affinity for gambling. The excitement of the "play" appeals. Natives of this zodiacal sign can be extravagant, spectacular. It is with big or lose heavily, with little in-between for these persons. The same principle is likely to apply where affairs of the heart are concerned. Leo commits, gets involved, takes the cold plunge — and in gambling parlance, can also "take a bath." Financial picture should be brighter for Leo in October.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Heavy responsibility or pressure exists in home and basic security areas. You should face issues in realistic manner. Undue delay, excuses will not serve your best interests. Proposal made by Pisces requires careful examination.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Misunderstandings are apt to arise concerning statements supposedly made to neighbor or relative. Hold fast to principles. You have more on your side than might be apparent on surface. Act accordingly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Get rid of burden not rightfully your own. Don't throw good money after losing proposition. You have right to more freedom. Know it and make sure others are aware of it. Check valuables. Get valid accounting.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Lunar indications are such that you may feel squeeze of added responsibility. Mate, partner has needs and you are directly involved. Take new look at complicated situation. Leo, Aquarius persons could figure prominently.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Much of what you learn may have flimsy base. Don't base actions on impulse. Take time to be thorough. Something is being kept under cover. Your intuition will aid. But you also should do some reportorial digging.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Some friends deal with heavy hand. Key now is to seek avenues of expression. Refuse to be painted into emotional corner. One who aided in past may not be in position to repeat. Know it and map your own plans.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You achieve through unorthodox procedures. Those who are conservative, wedded to past, might resent you. Maintain steady pace. You get chance to handle more responsibility. If thorough, you gain mostly, your self-esteem will be on upswing — and that's important.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): What you learn, sticks — what you start, endures. Experiences mean much, more so than usual. People you encounter may play important roles in your life. Gemini and Virgo could figure prominently. Communicate with one at a distance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accents on home, family, domestic situation. Adjustment is featured, including talk, activity connected with possible change of residence. Money discussion with mate, partner probably is on agenda. Settling of accounts indicated.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Lie low. Don't feel you must have it all your way. If you give a little, you could receive plenty. Know it and act accordingly. One close to you, boost in confidence. Lean over to provide support — make concession. Be aware of possible legal maneuvering.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You get support from surprise source — older person backs your premise. If you check recent event, key will be provided for future action. Nothing is handed on platter — you do have to dig, ask, correlate and condense. Capricorn can help if approached in correct manner.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 10): You may be in forbidden territory. Means, you are expressive, gesticulates, is not ashamed to be emotional. You attract to your sphere persons born under Gemini and Virgo. You have had problems at home but these should be settled in September. You are active, analytical and humorous. You are not easy to understand, but you are a fascinating, challenging individual.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are perceptive, a natural writer, one who expresses, gesticulates, is not ashamed to be emotional. You attract to your sphere persons born under Gemini and Virgo. You have had problems at home but these should be settled in September. You are active, analytical and humorous. You are not easy to understand, but you are a fascinating, challenging individual.

State Tax Revenue Up By 6.58%

By The Associated Press
Tax revenue pouring into Nebraska's general fund in fiscal 1973 exceeded advance expectations by 6.58 per cent, Tax Commissioner William E. Peters reported Wednesday.

The individual income tax, especially, "experienced a growth rate far beyond expectation," he said in letters to members of the state Board of Equalization, which sets tax rates each November.

"At this time, the department cannot explain why this happened," Peters said. "However, unexplainable prosperity is much easier to accept than the reverse situation."

The excess in net revenue from all categories in the year ended June 30 totaled $13,796,147. Net receipts totaled $223,300,685, compared with a projected $209,504,538.

It was this surplus which led Gov. J. James Exon Sunday to hold out the possibility that the individual income tax, already reduced this year from 15 to 13 per cent, may be lowered even more for calendar 1974.

Sales tax revenue, for which a 7.5 per cent growth rate had been projected, actually increased nine per cent, to $95,480,714, Peters said. However, the growth rate was down from the previous year's 12.4 per cent.

The individual income tax was expected to increase by nine per cent, but actually increased by 28.4 per cent to $111,600,941. However, refunds also were underestimated, bringing net revenue increase down to 15 per cent.

The corporate income tax had been expected to increase by 7.5 per cent, but actually grew by 12.4 per cent to $14,761,180.

The cigarette tax, fourth most productive, brought in $12,288,053, or 1.84 per cent more than expected.

Fire Conditions Worsen

By The Associated Press

Ten major forest fires continued to burn out of control over 78,000 acres of four western states Wednesday. Another 101,000 wooded acres were reported incinerated by 42 fires which were under control across the fire-stricken Northwest.

Scores of new, small fires were reported to have been started by lightning Wednesday, and predictions of high, fire-spreading winds were issued for the remainder of the week.

Fire overseer Roger Leonard had said early Wednesday that progress was being made and that "there's some room for encouragement." But then one California fire exploded out of control, another outran containment efforts and a bad weather forecast was issued.

Les Mallory, chief fire weather meteorologist in Salt Lake City, said he expected winds to begin increasing late Thursday. "Friday and Saturday will be real bad days," he said.

Mallory predicted extensive dry lightning thunderstorms in the Idaho-Montana area, and said some might also occur in eastern Oregon and eastern Washington.

$77.2 Billion Paid To Food Middlemen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers paid a record $77.2 billion in middleman costs last year to get food from the farms to dinner tables, with processors getting the largest share, the Agriculture Department said Wednesday.

The total middleman expense between farmers and consumers was up $1.8 billion from 1971, the department said.

However, that increase was not as great as the increase received by farmers.

Processor costs accounted for more than $26.8 billion or 34.7

per cent of the total food marketing bill in 1972. Retail stores added another $22.3 billion or 29 per cent; and wholesale costs were nearly $10.3 billion or 13.3 per cent, the department said.

Costs of eating out last year, included in USDA calculations of marketing charges, amounted to more than $17.7 billion or 23 per cent of the total.

The figures, compiled for the first time on a year-to-year basis by the department, were included in a Marketing and Transportation situation report.

Only food produced on U.S. farms was included in the study. Imports and seafood were excluded, but farm products account for about 92 per cent of consumer food expenditures.

Last year farm-produced food cost a total of $116.2 billion, an increase of $5.5 billion from 1971.

Thus, at $77.2 billion, about two-thirds of what families spent to eat last year went to processors, wholesalers, retailers and restaurant operators.

Farmers, however, received a record share of $39 billion from consumer food spending in 1972.

That was an increase of 10.5 per cent, the sharpest rise in 25 years.

Although increasing to another record, the middleman marketing bill of $77.2 billion represented an increase of only 2.4 per cent from 1971. That was less than half the middleman increase of 5.9 per cent in 1971, the report said. Over the past 10 years the average annual rise has been 5.1 per cent.

The report said, "marketing services" accounted for all of the middleman increase. They were defined to include the use of prepared foods and convenience items.

"This was the first time the cost of providing marketing services accounted for all the growth in the marketing bill," the report said.

The report indicated that processors have taken a smaller bite from the total food marketing bill over the years, down from 45 per cent in 1958 to 35 per cent last year. However, the actual cost in dollars has risen at the rate of about 3 per cent a year, from $17.7 billion in 1958 to $26.8 billion.

"Labor costs accounted for nearly 44 per cent of the processors' bill in 1972, compared with less than 37 per cent in 1958," the report said. "Profits accounted for 8 per cent, up from 6 per cent in 1959."

F15 Fighter Flunks Test

Washington (UPI) — The engine designed for the new Air Force F15 fighter caught fire and tore apart during a crucial ground test, threatening serious problems for the full F15 program, the Defense Department announced Wednesday.

When the incident occurred in a Florida altitude chamber, the engine was said to be just 18 hours short of its required 150 hour endurance goal.

ASCS Orders Big Reduction In Community Committeemen

Nebraska farmers are in danger of losing their farmer elected committeeman system of administering farm programs at the local level, according to Ralph Lubeck, president of the Nebraska Association of Farmer Elected Committeemen.

Lubeck said that the Nebraska Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service has issued a notice asking county offices to reduce the number of community committeemen in the county to one. Some counties have had as many as 30 such members, who provide farmer input into the administrative procedures used locally by ASCS.

"We used to have one in each township to make sure the program was administered fairly to each farmer in the county. To me the community system is the most workable method of fairly administering any farm program at the local level. There is no way a local program can be run from Washington or even Lincoln," Lubeck said.

Lubeck said the state ASCS office wants to eliminate the community committeeman system by Sept. 1 and called on other farm leaders to join in fighting the move.

VFW Delegates Favor Probes Of Subversives

New Orleans (UPI) — The Veterans of Foreign Wars passed a resolution asking the FBI to intensify its surveillance of subversives in the United States.

Delegates attending the VFW's national convention also passed resolutions favoring restoration of the death penalty, repealing all gun control laws, supporting environmental programs, opposing any form of world government and condemning athletes who show "disrespect and ingratitude" to the American flag at sporting events.

The delegates called upon the FBI to increase domestic intelligence of "parties, groups and individuals whose actions are inimicable to the domestic tranquility of the United States."

Canon Leaving NU For Northern Illinois

Harry Canon, director of student development at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, will become vice president for student affairs at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb.

The announcement of Canon's appointment, effective Monday, was made by Northern Illinois President Richard J. Nelson and released in Lincoln.

Canon, 42, has since 1971 at UNL administered a number of student development services, including financial aids, placement, examination services, student discipline, counseling and research programs.

He also served here as director of the counseling center, a position he held six years. He was in a similar post at Virginia Polytechnic Institute previously.

In his new job, he will administer programs in financial aid, placement, student assistance, housing, counseling, health services, foreign student advising and student activities.

A Pennsylvania native, he earned his bachelors degree from Lycoming College, his masters at Penn State and his doctorate at UNL.

Kenneth Bader, UNL vice chancellor for student affairs, called Canon a "loyal and effective colleague" and said he wished him well in his new position.

'The Last Of The Southern Girls'

Carol Templeton Hollywell is "The Last Of The Southern Girls." Conceived somewhere within the imaginative recesses of the mind of her creator — author, Willie Morris — she is a beneficiary of that Southern legacy defined by debutante balls, crinoline, fraternity and sorority parties, and football games on Saturday afternoon.

A child of the twentieth century as well, she is simultaneously drawn into the somewhat less gracious arena of Washington, D.C. politics, where life is tuned not to the wind whispering through the magnolias, but to the sound of bargains being struck and careers being advanced and shattered.

Charming, flirtatious, innocently capricious on the one hand; on the other, she is aggressive, outspoken, calculating. Caught in a limbo between two worlds, she succeeds in tapping all that is superficial in both without ever allowing herself the luxury of total commitment to either one.

Her early indoctrination in the former world — a happy and prosperous childhood in the languid Mississippi River town of De Soto Point, Ark., followed by four academic years at that citadel of tradition, Ole Miss — prepared her quite admirably for the life-style she adopts during her young womanhood in Washington.

Looking back at one of her earliest experiences in the city — a late-Eisenhower-era party in a palatial Georgetown mansion, during which she was surrounded by national and international luminaries — she recalls that "She had been supremely happy that night, dazzled by the splendor of her hosts and their guests and by the manner in which they accepted her. Her whole life, and grace and the ease and the good-natured badinage, seemed to have prepared her for it, sprang from the soil of her birth. It had been so easy."

Thus welcomed and approved, she sets out to conquer Washington, and, to a great extent, she does.

books

by Cynthia
Johnson

"An engrossing tale of power and defeat become personal."

Working as a Senator's assistant, she gains a reputation for shrewdness and imagination, which, coupled with her quick wit and easy grace, makes her perhaps the most popular girl in town.

"In that illusory town where modern emperors had been made, and lesser men broken and thrown away, she too had reached the highest she could go. People turned to look at her in public. Politicians courted her favors. The powerless and the aspiring valued her invitations. Television and the newspapers sought her barbs and quips. She moved now with an almost theatrical elegance. Seldom had she esteemed herself so highly."

Yet at precisely this point, with favors falling in her lap, everything that is sweet turns sour. The fatal flaw — "she was blind to her own vanity" — begins to take its toll. And in the wake of her climb to the pinnacles, she leaves the wreckage of boundless ambition.

Her will to success causes the ruin of one marriage ("Should I have sought greatness in a husband?" she muses); and her eventual ostracization from the ranks of the political and social elite.

She is temporarily redeemed when she learns what it is to care for another — a freshman Representtative with whom she falls deeply in love. But this too proves short-lived. His success is transitory; and when it departs, Carol Hollywell is the first one out the door.

Author Morris has written an engrossing tale of power and defeat become personal. It is with a good deal of authority that he approaches his heroine, following her through the heady years of her early rise to prominence; then during the agonizing period when she realizes that something is wrong — with her.

Morris is also adept at creating a highly evocative sense of place — be it Washington or De Soto Point, Ark. — that adds considerably to the tone of his narrative.

Published by Alfred A. Knopf, "The Last of The Southern Girls" is Morris's first novel (although he has authored several other books, including one for children). Hopefully, others will follow.

Meal Moocher Dilemma

DEAR ABBY: A nifty couple we know drops by unexpectedly several times a week — and always at dinnertime, so we have to invite them to stay for dinner. They are breaking us in the food department. They finish off everything so we never have any leftovers. Also, they drink coffee (which isn't cheap) by the gallon. When one pot is empty the wife gets up and makes another pot, just like she's in her own home.

They invited us to dinner at their place twice, and both times they served rice while they bragged that they had a whole cow in their freezer!

Don't suggest that we tell them we ate already when they come over. We tried that once and they said: "So did we," came in and sat until midnight and everybody's stomach was growling so loud we could hardly hear ourselves talk.

So how do we tell this couple not to come for dinner without hurting their feelings?

STUCK

DEAR STUCK: What feelings? If you permit unwelcome guests to impose on you, look for sympathy under "S" in the dictionary.

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorced woman of 43 who has been dating a 50-year-old bachelor for two years. I'd like to know if I'm wasting my time. I cook him a full hot meal at least four nights a week, and how that man loves to eat! He is so sweet and affectionate to my two daughters, who are 10 and 12, but he never kisses me unless I practically force myself on him. The first time he kissed me I was boarding a bus to go visit my mother and I said: "Aren't you going to kiss me goodbye?"

dear
abby

So he kissed me. Do you think there is something wrong with a man his age who can hardly keep his hands off 10 and 12-year-old girls but never makes a move toward a mature woman?

Also, he never says a word about our future. Should I bring it up? I would like to know where I stand.

TIRED OF WAITING

DEAR TIRED: Don't waste any more time on him. But to be sure you aren't passing up a likeable prospect, ask him how he feels about marriage. I'll bet he disappears in a hurry, which will be a break for you.

COP Helps With 'Impossible Dream'

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

Obtaining a college education is an expensive proposition these days. Even those with an average or above-average income may feel the pinch when the price of books and tuition is added to the already high cost of living.

For people in the lower income brackets, the expense may make a college degree seem like the "impossible dream" due to the prohibitive financial considerations.

Fortunately, however, assistance is available through a number of government-sponsored programs for low-income individuals who express an interest in completing the work that will lead to a college degree.

One of the more comprehensive programs of this nature currently in operation in Lincoln is the Career Opportunities Program (COP).

Formally launched in June, 1970, COP was conceived as a program to assist low-income individuals and Vietnam-era veterans who wished to obtain teaching certificates from the University of Nebraska.

Under the direction of Dr. Paul W. Thompson, COP began with a first-year U.S. Office of Education grant of $72,000, and an enrollment that included 50 prospective teachers.

Funding was contracted through June of 1973 — a five-year period that would allow individual participants time to complete the course work necessary for their degrees.

"This was a rather unusual federal grant, in that it was a guaranteed five-year program," Thompson noted, adding that the precise amount of federal money made available for the Lincoln program is renegotiated on a year-to-year basis.

According to Thompson, Lincoln COP officials have not had difficulty obtaining sufficient funds, even though there has recently been a general cut-back in federal grants to education.

The program was devised in such a way that participants, while working on their degrees, are also employed as full-time teacher aides in Lincoln Public Schools classrooms during the regular school year. Assisting with Head Start, Follow Through, and the Title I Reading Program — all federally-backed endeavors — they receive the same salaries paid to all teacher aides.

In addition, tuition for University of Nebraska classes in which they enroll for the purpose of obtaining their degrees, are paid for by the program.

Thompson explained that a participant usually carries six hours of course work during the school year, and 12 hours during the summer months.

Books necessary for college work are also covered by the grant, and during the summer, participants are provided with a living stipend to cover the months in which they are not earning a regular salary.

Supplementary "On-Site" courses, taught at Elliott School by university instructors are available to COP enrollees once a week during the regular school year and the first session of summer school.

Because participants receive "in-service" experience as teacher aides while they are working toward their degrees, the program, in theory, should result in teachers who are highly familiar with classroom techniques and problems.

"Supposedly, the program will make them much better teachers," Thompson observed.

At the present time, 55 individuals are enrolled in COP, and Thompson noted that that figure will probably remain stable through 1975.

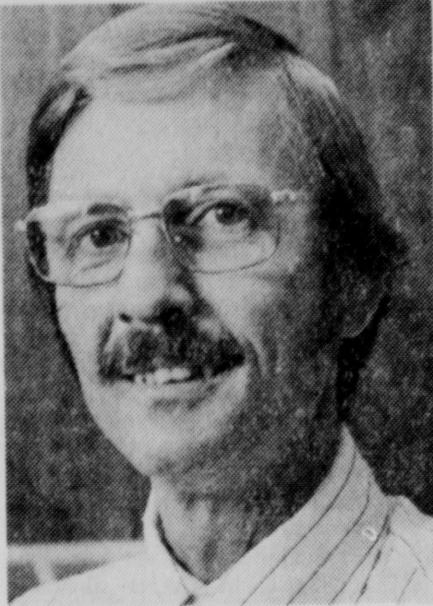

"The U.S. Office of Education suggested that no new participants be taken in at this point," he said, noting that, at one time, the program was serving 65 people.

Thompson stated that the primary qualifications required of potential participants were that they be of low-income background, and that they have the potential for working with youngsters.

Age was of no consideration in selecting participants, he said, although most of those enrolled in the program are in their 20's. And, once enrolled, they were given the option of specializing in either secondary or elementary education.

Noting that there are 133 COP sites throughout the country (the only other Nebraska program is in Omaha), he explained that Lincoln is dissimilar from the majority, in that only 25 to 30% of the participants here are Black.

"Most are Black-dominated, but this is not the case here," he said. (Although it is significant to note that the percentage of minority participation in the Lincoln COP greatly exceeds the city's total minority population, which is less than 5%.

To date, seven COP participants have received their teaching certificates, and one is currently employed as an instructor in a technical college.

Looking to the future, Thompson stated that he anticipates that most of those now enrolled in COP will eventually receive their teaching certificates.

As mentioned before, COP funding is scheduled to cease in 1975, and Thompson said that, unless it is taken over by another agency, the program itself will be terminated.

When asked if he felt that the program should be continued beyond 1975, he qualified his answer by first observing that since the teaching field is so highly-saturated with job-seekers, the prospect of training more educators is somewhat self-defeating.

"However, the idea of getting low-income people into gainful employment is definitely a good one," he concluded.

Young Women Turn To Sewing

Fifty million American women — and an increasing number of younger ones — had it all sewed up last year. They took to their sewing machines and stitched out everything from slip covers to self-inspired bathing suits.

According to a survey conducted by Simplicity Pattern Company, the average age of the home sewer has dropped to 23, down from 47 a few years ago, and 85 per cent of teenage girls know how to sew.

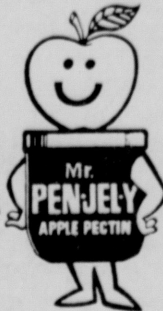

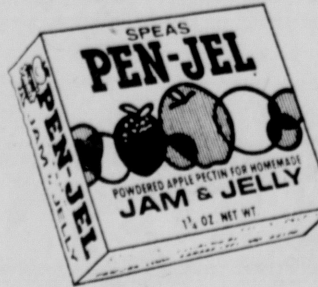

The sewing industry (ranging from sewing machines and notions to fabrics and patterns) has grown steadily since 1965, jumping from a $1.3 billion business that year to a whopping $3 billion in 1972, according to Time Magazine. Fabrics, the largest segment, account for two-thirds of that figure.

"It Helped Me Get What I Set Out To Do"

By Cynthia Johnson
Star Staff Writer

In 1970, Loyce Brooks, a 35-year-old Lincoln resident, enrolled in the Career Opportunities Program (COP). This summer, her three years of academic work and "in-service" training as a teacher aide, were rewarded when she received her bachelor's degree and teaching certificate from the University of Nebraska.

Ms. Brooks, a native of Kansas City and the mother of five children, speaks highly of the federally-funded program which was designed to assist low-income individuals in receiving a college education.

"I liked it a lot," she said. "It helped me get what I set out to do. I found it to be an excellent way to get a degree and on-the-job training."

Prior to entering COP, she had worked with Head Start for a number of years — first as a teacher aide, then as a health aide.

During that period, she also took a few classes at Peru State College. "I was taking supplementary training through Head Start," she explained.

However, she noted that she had "no definite plans to receive a degree" until COP began.

She found out about COP through her Head Start employers, and she was one of 50 initial enrollees in the program.

For the past three years, she has worked, as have all COP participants, in a Lincoln Public Schools classroom as a teacher aide. Although this COP "in-service" training was similar to the job she held before (she was again assigned to assist in the Head Start program), her total experience was more comprehensive because she was, at the same time, enrolled in a regular schedule of classes at the University of Nebraska.

One of the most positive factors of COP, as Ms. Brooks sees it, is the practical classroom experience obtained by all participants.

"The on-the-job training helped a great deal," she said.

As a result of her involvement in COP — and the degree that it lead to — Ms. Brooks will, this fall, begin her first year as a professional teacher. She will be employed at Park School, where she will be in charge of a Head Start classroom.

Looking to the future, she indicated that, eventually she would like to teach in the primary grades. "After I have more experience, I'd like to move up."

Ms. Brooks is not the only one in her family to have benefited from COP. Her sister also received a college degree with the assistance of an identical program in operation in Kansas City.

Referring to the fact that her sister, who is several years her junior, completed her education before she did, Ms. Brooks said with a smile, "She beat me to it."

Man Charged With Assault, Intent To Rape

Sam Lewis, 18, of 3417 Holdrege Wednesday was charged in Lancaster County Court with assault with intent to rape in connection with an incident Monday involving a 21-year-old woman in her apartment near downtown Lincoln.

The woman told police that when she answered the door a man standing there reached down and pulled a knife out of his sock. She said he told her to go into the bedroom, but she screamed. The scream brought the landlady and the man fled.

A preliminary hearing for Lewis was set for Sept. 4. Bond was set at $1,500. Lewis was arrested at 3:30 a.m. Wednesday as he entered a restaurant at 40th and Cornhusker.

Judge Rules Against Gunn, But Says Police Report False

U.S. District Judge Warren K. Urbom has ruled that most of the charges leveled against Lincoln Police Chief Joe Carroll and two Lincoln police officers in a civil suit are unfounded.

Urbom found that the facts partly sustained two charges, but that the parties in the suit were not legally liable in those instances.

The suit, filed by James V. Gunn in connection with his arrest for drunk driving in December, 1971, sought $191,000 in damages.

The suit claimed that Gunn was falsely arrested, imprisoned without cause, maliciously prosecuted, denied his right to counsel and equal protection under the law and that he was slandered by testimony in court and libeled by a police report.

Gunn was convicted in Lincoln Municipal Court on a drunk driving charge, but the charges were later dismissed in an appeal to Lancaster District Court. A chemical test showed that Gunn had .07% alcohol in his blood at the time of arrest.

Highway 41, UP Tracks Reopened

Lincoln Star Special
Cortland — Both Highway 41 and the Union Pacific railroad tracks south of here, blocked Tuesday by derailment debris, were reopened Wednesday night.

Thirty-four cars of a freight train, bound for Marysville, Kan., were derailed in the collision of the train and a semi-trailer.

Driver of the semi-trailer, George Montgomery, 42, of Lincoln, died in the crash.

UP officials in Omaha said only one car carrying anhydrous ammonia was punctured by the force of the crash and leaked gas from eight to nine hours until it was empty.

A wind dissipated the fumes without endangering the area, a UP spokesman stated. Railroad crewmen stood by during the entire time the car was leaking, the spokesman added.

Two other freight cars were loaded with ammonia, but remained intact, it was pointed out by the UP official.

Although holding for Carroll and Officers Frank Kirtley and Frank Larsen, Urbom said after viewing a video tape of a sobriety test that several statements made in a report by Kirtley were false.

Among the statements Urbom pointed out in his memorandum as being false were Kirtley's statement that Gunn swayed during the balance test and that he was "uncertain" in picking up three coins. Urbom said Gunn picked up the coins "definitely."

Urbom ruled, however, that police officers making a report in the line of duty are privileged and are not liable to civil legal action.

In regards to Gunn's claim that he was not permitted a phone call, Urbom suggested that Carroll be sure all officers understand that even though an allegedly intoxicated person is not permitted to place the call himself, an officer will do it for him.

By The Associated Press
Two residents of England are among possible beneficiaries of a $225,000 estate left by three bachelor brothers who farmed and died near Wayne.

Charles Oliver, 73, died a year ago of natural causes. On the way to his funeral, his brothers, William 71 and John, 70, were injured fatally in a traffic accident.

The will of each brother left all his property to the remaining two in equal shares. When all three died, no known heirs remained.

Recently a petition for determination of heirship was filed with the Wayne County Court, listing 21 individuals as heirs.

Identified as first cousins are Glenn Oliver of Bellbroughton, Starbridge Wares, dy 99th, England; Anna Flora Edwards, Stourbridge, Worcestershire, England, and Beatrice Elliott, Sterling Heights, Mich.

The other 18, living in Wisconsin, Michigan and Arizona, are identified as third and fourth cousins.

County Judge Joseph Hunker of West Point, Neb., has held preliminary discussions with Wayne Atty. Budd B. Bornhoff, the estate administrator; Kem W. Swarts, Wayne lawyer who filed the petition, and Assistant Nebraska Atty. Gen. B. L. Packett.

The state's interest stems from the fact that if no heirs are approved, the estate goes into the state's treasury.

Gaudet Surrenders

ARROYO HONDO, N.M. (AP) — Edwin M. Gaudet, sought in the mountains of northern New Mexico nearly three days for allegedly threatening the life of President Nixon, surrendered peacefully Wednesday.

Gaudet, 29, a former New Orleans policeman, drove to a police base camp with his wife and cousin, to whom he had surrendered. He told newsmen the "government is organized crime" and was then taken by a Secret Service agent to Albuquerque for arraignment.

A federal warrant issued in New Orleans charged that Gaudet, a resident of the Morning Star commune near Taos, N.M., "knowingly, willfully, unlawfully, made a threat to take the life of the President" in New Orleans earlier this month. The charge carries a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine or five years imprisonment or both.

The Secret Service said it had no evidence linking Gaudet to an alleged conspiracy to kill the President during his visit to New Orleans last Monday.

Before being taken to Albuquerque, Gaudet told newsmen, "The government is organized crime. The Pope is the head of the Mafia. And I support Angela Davis for president."

Gaudet's wife, Judy, said the couple was not in New Orleans on Aug. 15, when, according to the warrant, Gaudet said in a New Orleans establishment, "Somebody ought to kill President Nixon. If no one has the guts, I'll do it."

State Building Commission To Hear Architect Firms

The State Building Commission will meet Aug. 28 to hear final presentations by the last two architectural firms in the running for the state office building project, State Engineer Thomas Doyle said Wednesday.

Doyle, secretary of the commission, said the meeting is scheduled to get underway in the capitol building at 2:30 p.m.

Davis, Clark and Association of Lincoln will appear first and Henningsen, Durham and Richardson of Omaha will follow.

Doyle said he didn't know whether a decision would be made by the commission during that meeting on which firm would get the job, which has a top price ceiling of $20 million.

Children's Barnyard Offers Duckling

John Lieghard of LeCenter, Minn., snuggles a duckling at the children's barnyard at the Le Sueur County Fair at Le Center. The fair is one of the last county fairs before the 11-day Minnesota State Fair starts Friday.

By United Press International'
Nebraska's new county court system cost state taxpayers $632,000 for the six months in operation, State Court Administrator James Dunleavy said Wednesday.

"And I personally don't think that's too bad," Dunleavy said. "I don't think the judicial branch of government should be any more self-supporting than any other branch."

Overall, the system required an appropriation of $1,263,000 from the state general fund of which about $640,000 came back in the form of fees and costs.

In the first place he said no comparison could be made because county courts alone aren't the only judicial units which would have to be taken into consideration.

In January of this year, with a 1972 law as the authority for change, 21 districts were established which were manned by 43 judges and about 100 associate judges.

Replaced was a system which had 93 county judges, 100 active justices of the peace and about 200 police magistrates.

Not Accurate

price tag for the new system.

From the money generated judicially only fees and costs placed in the state general fund. The bulk of the fine money goes to public schools and inheritance taxes are left in the coffers.

No totals have been together on fines and inheritance taxes but Dunleavy supplied examples from reports alone.

In Lincoln County, one of the larger ones in the state, the county court collected $43,625 in inheritance taxes and $167,500

Bellevue (AF) — An Omaha man, who twice served prison terms for burglary, was shot and killed Tuesday night after he allegedly attempted to burglarize a Sarpy County store.

Authorities said the dead man was Gerald Patrick McGuire.

Deputy County Atty. Chris Arps issued a preliminary ruling of justifiable homicide in the case.

Arps said McGuire was killed by a Security National guard as he ran from a TG&Y store.

Arps said the guard and two deputy sheriffs had fired several warning shots and had shouted for McGuire to halt. The guard then fired from a distance of about 50 yards and struck McGuire twice, Arps said.

Arps would not identify the guard.

The guard and deputies for McGuire inside the store, Arps said, after he had tripped a silent alarm. He escaped crashing through a front window.

Omaha Police Department records show Arps served a 1961-62 in the State Penitentiary for burglary and a 1964 term in the Nebraska State Penitentiary for burglary.

License Sought

Santa Monica, Calif. (UPI) — Actor Lou Gosset, star of the film "Skin Game," has applied for a license to marry a 26-year-old hair dresser, Christine Manrossing, it was disclosed.

By The Associated Press

A blazing white light moving swiftly across the sky from the southwest to the northeast was observed by residents over widely scattered areas of Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa Tuesday night.

In Denver, the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) said the shower of streaking light was apparently caused by a Soviet communications satellite disintegrating on re-entry into the earth's atmosphere.

Canadian Maj. Dale Northrup said NORAD had been told of the re-entry by the Soviet government before it took place between 10:30 and 11 p.m.

Switchboards of law enforcement agencies, airports, weather bureaus and newspaper and radio-TV stations were flooded by reports and questions about the strange light.

Maj. Northrup said there "was nothing unusual" about the re-entry. He said the "peculiarities of the orbit" of the satellite probably accounted for its re-entry over the United States.

The object was observed by many residents of Nebraska as it flamed across the sky.

Glen Underhill, Kearney State planetarium astronomer, witnessed the event across the sky and believed it might be a satellite entering the atmosphere.

Big Springs, Neb. (AP) — Firemen from five different communities were called Tuesday night to battle a blaze in the Dorn Elevator here.

Elevator Manager Bill Mills said an automatic heat detector set off the alarm at about 8:30 p.m.

After the initial call to the Big Springs Volunteer Fire Department, units were called in from Brule, Ogallala, Chappell, Jewell and Julesburg, Colo.

It took nearly eight hours to bring the fire under control, and firemen continued to standby Wednesday as the remains of the old elevator continued to smoulder.

Mills said the elevator, which was destroyed, contained about 70,000 bushels of this year's wheat.

Firemen prevented the flames from reaching a newer, steel elevator a short distance away.

The new elevator contains about 600,000 bushels of wheat and excessive heat could have damaged the grain.

Mills could not estimate the total damage.

Jackson-(UPI) — A two head-on crash near here sh before midnight Tuesday claimed the life of one of drivers.

The State Patrol identified victim as Raymond Burns, Waterbury.

The patrol said the westbound car driven by Burns was in collision with an eastbound driven by Edward Evens, Sioux City, Iowa.

YORK, Neb. (AP)—Electronics, Inc., of Columbus announced Wednesday it is opening a manufacturing plant in York which will initially employ 30 to 35 persons on each shift beginning Oct. 1.

The announcement by William R. Simpson, Dale's president, said the facility would be an extension of the firm's wound division. He said they would begin hiring on or about Sept. 4 and will transport employees to Columbus for two weeks of training before opening of the York facility.

Dale's main plant is located in Columbus. Dale is a subsidiary of the Lionel Corp. and has plants in Norfolk; York, S.D.; Canada, and Germany.

Simpson said 90 per cent of York employees will be women. He said the plant, to be temporarily located in a downtown building that once served the York Legion Club, will produce wire-wound resistors. He said the production line eventually will turn out 40,000 resistors a day.

Dale has indicated that if it goes well with the initial installation, a plant may be located at an industrial location which would employ 500 persons.

Macomb, Ill. (AP) — A 240-pound Duroc hog was auctioned by Western Illinois University for $12,750 and officials said the hog was a national record for the breed. The hog, raised at the university's test station, was owned by Robert Bennett of Meloy Farm of Linden, Ind. The bore, bought for breeding, was from Allan Krivohavlenko of Dorchester, Neb., Moore and Perry of Lincoln, Mo., and Gentry Brothers of Polo, Mo.

Naps While Beef Rustled

CHICAGO (AP) — Marilyn Pagors, a truck driver from Sherburn, Minn., has no beef. Unfortunately, that's the problem.

After arriving in Chicago early Wednesday morning, he told police, he decided to nap in the cab of his truck until the market opened. Two hours later another driver awakened Pagors to tell him the back doors of the truck were open.

Someone had rustled eight sides of beef worth $1,200 — maybe more when the price freeze ends Sept. 12.

Markets Failers Again

New York (AP) — Cried by investor worries over inflation, higher interest rates, and the effectiveness of the Nixon administration, the stock market faltered again on Wednesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which lost almost 10 points in the previous session, fell 5.94 more to close at 851.90. That was the lowest closing level of the blue-chip indicator since Dec. 2, 1971, when it stood at 848.79.

Declines overwhelmed advances, 872 to 452, among the 1,725 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Volume was a slight 10.77 million shares. The broad-based NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks was off .22, finishing at 53.55.

"The market is obviously much more sensitive to interest rates, and to nervous and fearful about how much higher they can go," said Monte Gordon of Drexel, Burnham & Co.

Robert Wade of Drexel, Burnham & Co. said the record high yields of short-term securities such as Treasury bills and commercial paper "offer investors little incentive" to buy equity issues.

Other analysts said investors were worried that the continuing political troubles of the Nixon Administration were preventing the government from tackling the nation's economic problems.

The average would be 100 points higher if the White House concentrated on managing the economy instead of the political problems of Nixon and Agnew," said Charles M. Lewis of Winkler, Cantor & Pombroy.

Antitrust legislation, designation of Secretary of State William F. Rogers as having difficulty retaining key cabinet officers.

In trading on the Big Board, Polaroid was the volume leader, falling 1 1/4 to 110 1/4 after H. R. Pratt & Co. reported a major brokerage firm had lowered its earnings estimate on the photo company.

Brokers said the report weighed on the market generally and pulled down another photo company, Eastman Kodak, which lost 1 1/4 to 110 1/4.

Oils were mostly lower, reflecting a bearish journal evaluation Tuesday on the political problems of Nixon and Agnew. Slide 1 1/4 to 87 1/4. Texas was advanced at 28 1/4, and Gulf dipped 1/4 to 21 1/4.

Merck was down 1 1/4 to 80 in the wake of speculation the drug industry would be subjected to tough questions on its price controls in upcoming congressional hearings.

New Conference To Form

The first step in the formation of a new conference involving Chadron, Kearney and Wayne State Colleges was taken last week when Northern State College, S.D., gave notice of dropping out of the South Dakota Intercollegiate Conference.

The withdrawal of the Aberdeen school becomes effective July 1, 1974 and the Wolves plan to start a new conference with Chadron, Kearney, Wayne, Eastern Montana State College and possibly Black Hills State College, S.D., South Dakota Tech and Colorado Mines.

The athletic directors of the three Nebraska schools confirmed that discussions concerning the new conference have been considered for some time.

The major reason the three Nebraska schools want to form a new conference is that the current Nebraska College Conference "hasn't been adequate since it became a four-team conference in 1968."

However, all three athletic directors assert that they'll continue their commitments in the NCC if a new conference is started.

What basically happened according to the three athletic directors is that South Dakota is just now going through what Nebraska colleges did in the 1960s.

The small state and private colleges in South Dakota are having enrollment and financial problems and can't compete with the larger state colleges like Northern and Black Hills. So, the larger state schools have decided to form a new conference with colleges on the same level of competition.

In Nebraska the smaller, private colleges dropped out of the NCC in the 1960s to form their own conference which is the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and is made up of Concordia, Dana, Doane, Hastings, Midland and Nebraska Wesleyan.

When Hastings left the NCC in 1968, that left only the four state colleges and created problems, one of which is that the NAIA doesn't officially recognize four-team conferences.

Peru Definitely Not Interested

Since 1968 the NCC schools or at least Chadron, Kearney and Wayne have been looking for a new conference and apparently the search is over. Peru, according to athletic director Jack McIntire, is "definitely not interested in the new conference because of the travel involved."

Kearney's athletic director Al Zikmund doesn't believe the added travel will amount to that much for his school.

"We now play Northern and Eastern Montana in football," Zikmund says. "The new conference seems very feasible to us when we took all the considerations under study."

Kearney was approached by the Plains Division of the Rocky Mountain Conference just after Hastings dropped out of the NCC Zikmund recalled.

"We didn't know if we could keep up with the Rocky Mountain Conference financially after we studied the offer to join, so we turned it down," Zikmund recalled.

"However, the schools in the proposed new conference have similar concepts and the conference would be a step in the right direction for us," he continued.

"We've been dissatisfied with the Nebraska College Conference as a four-team conference and the new conference is a goal we've been trying to reach for quite some time."

Horse Racing Benefits Told

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Legalizing pari-mutuel betting in Iowa would spur growth of the horse-breeding industry and create a lot of new jobs, a legislative study committee was told Wednesday.

Tully Talbot of Audubon, secretary of the Iowa Thoroughbred Breeders and Owners Assn., told the committee it also would keep in the state money that Iowans spend to attend and bet on horse races elsewhere.

But another witness, Raymond Hayes of Des Moines, chairman of the Citizens Committee Against Legalized Gambling, said at least 100,000 Iowans would have to take up gambling as a way of life if the legislature legalizes horse race betting.

Hayes said a horse race track would be "a dismal economic failure" unless at least that many Iowans attended the race meetings.

"Can you see that many Iowans doing it?" Hayes asked.

The committee is studying proposed legislation to permit pari-mutuel betting on horse races such as is permitted in Nebraska, Illinois and South Dakota. Pari-mutuel betting bills have been introduced in each legislative session for several years but never have passed.

Talbot told the committee that "if you are going to have gambling, it needs to be state-controlled."

He said illegal gambling on horse races now takes place in Iowa, mostly by telephone, and there is no effective control over it.

"Fully half" of the attendance at Omaha's Ak-Sar-Ben track is by Iowa people. He said Ak-Sar-Ben broke all attendance records this year with 802,000 fans attending the 55-day meeting. The daily handle was almost $1 million, he added.

"There is no question that some people get into trouble gambling," Talbot said. "But the average western Iowan goes to the races five times and bets $72 dollars in a year, and they spend their money in Nebraska."

Talbot said not only would pari-mutuel betting stimulate the breeding of race horses in Iowa, but jobs would be created wherever the racetracks would be located. It takes one employee for every three horses at a race meeting, he said.

He predicted that membership in his organization, which now numbers 72, would jump to between 300 and 400 thoroughbred breeders if there were a pari-mutuel track in Iowa.

They would breed better horses than they now do and horse sales would bring considerable money into the state, Talbot said. It is not uncommon for good race horses to sell for $60,000-$70,000, and some of the excellent horses bred in such places as Kentucky and California have brought $700,000 or more, he said.

Hayes said pari-mutuel gambling spawns underworld betting rings because "people who acquire the gambling habit, don't turn off when the season ends. They'll need a bookie."

He said pari-mutuel horse race betting is "the rich man's pastime and the poor man's disaster."

Hayes cited Ak-Sar-Ben figures which he said indicate two-thirds of all bets come from the minimum bet windows, in support of his contention that poor people lose money at the races.

The committee decided to visit the racetrack at Columbus, Neb., Sept. 6 and 7 to gain some idea of the kind of investment that would have to be made to establish one or more racetracks with pari-mutuel betting equipment in Iowa.

Kiffin: Goal Line Defense Aptitude Test

By RANDY YORK

To Monte Kiffin, a goal line defense is an aptitude test.

"If you want to find out who your tough football players are, you put them in a goal line situation and see how they react," says Kiffin.

The Nebraska defensive coordinator says "a goal line defense is just a lot of pride. If you don't find out who wants to play in a 3rd and 1 or 4th and 1 situation, you never will."

Kiffin incorporated a goal line defense into the Cornhuskers' Wednesday practice session for 15 minutes against the scout squad.

"During the season, we practice our goal line defense at least twice a week, if not more," acknowledged Kiffin, who cited two examples of its value.

"We found out how important it was last year in the Colorado game when Jimmy Branch hit Bo Mathews on a fourth and one," recalls Kiffin.

"It's demoralizing to an offense if you can stop it in a fourth and one anywhere on the field," he adds. "That was the turning point against Colorado. After that tackle, we rose up and they started to fall down."

The recently married Kiffin said the value of a solid goal line defense was also reflected in Ohio State's giant-sized upset of Michigan last fall.

"Ohio State came up with great goal line stands time after time," noted Kiffin, "but it just didn't happen. They practiced long and hard on the right way to do it."

Nebraska's idea of the "right way" would involve yanking the safety and substituting another down lineman, which could be a middle guard or tackle, according to Kiffin.

When an opponent penetrates Nebraska's defense, an altered goal line lineup would probably take out safety Bob Thornton and replace him with either Doug Johnson, Dean Gissler or Willie Thornton, according to Kiffin.

Johnson (6-4, 224) and Gissler (6-7, 248) are second team defensive tackles. Thornton is a 6-1, 220-pound sophomore middle guard from Amory, Miss.

"You have to get your offensive scout team to give you a realistic picture in a goal line defense," Kiffin stresses. "It can't be a dummy drill. It isn't live either, but it's about 99 percent live. We were form tackling today, but the kids were fired up."

Kiffin believes his whole cast of defensive candidates has been "fired up" despite what he called "the hottest fall camp we've ever had."

"The kids' attitude has been great. I don't know of a defensive player who's missed practice yet," added Kiffin. "I'm patting the kids on the shoulder. That shows good attitude and sticking together."

Sophomore defensive back Jim Burrow has been the only defensive player to miss practice and "he pulled a hamstring before he even got here," noted Kiffin.

Nebraska will continue 2-a-day workouts at 9:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday in preparation for a 3:30 p.m. scrimmage Saturday when the Big Eight Skywriters Tour visits Lincoln.

Trojans Named UPI No. One

... COLORADO TENTH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Southern California, led by two second team All Americans, running back Anthony Davis and linebacker Richard Wood, is rated a top choice by the United Press International Board of Coaches to repeat as national football champion.

Twenty-five of the 29 coaches participating in the pre-season ratings selected the Trojans as No. 1, despite Southern California losing seven starters from the offensive unit and four from the defensive team after an undefeated season. "This team is capable of winning every game again," said jubilant coach John McKay. "And if we're better than last year's club, we've got a helluva team."

Nebraska, the 1971 national champion and perennial Big Eight power, was runner-up to Southern Cal in the balloting, 279 points to 175. Ohio State was another nine points back with 166, 10 more than the 156 for fourth place Texas.

Alabama received 143 points for fifth place, followed by Michigan (140), Penn State (85), UCLA (73), Tennessee (66) and Colorado (62).

Tom Osborne, who replaced Bob Devaney as Nebraska coach, has six offensive and four defensive starters returning from last year's team. The loss of Johnny Rodgers, Rich Glover and Willie Harper apparently hasn't deflated the Cornhusker chances for a good season in the eyes of the coaches.

Each week they vote on the top 10 teams and points are awarded on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis for votes from first through 10th.

Benson Nips Kansans, 2-0

MOOREHEAD, Minn. (AP)—Right-hander Roger Maxwell, who pitched 21 scoreless innings in the Nebraska American Legion State Tournament, fired a five-hit shutout Wednesday to lead Omaha Benson Post 112 to a 2-0 victory over Winfield, Kan., in the opening game of the Central Plains regional baseball tournament.

Omaha scored in the seventh inning when first baseman singled home catcher Dave Roshone and added an insurance run in the ninth when Maxwell singled in the doubling Roshone.

Winfield had a two-out bases loaded threat in the second inning and a two-out, two-on situation in the ninth, but failed to capitalize. The losers record dropped to 30-8.

FELLED CAGER... U.S. cager Tommy Burleson (14) lies on floor during wild melee between U.S. and Cuban players.

Cubans Battle U.S. Cagers

MOSCOW (AP)—The U.S. men's basketball team survived a fist-flying, chair-swinging, bottle-throwing attack by its Cuban rival and American swimmers suffered startling reverses Wednesday in a day of violence and disappointment at the World University Games.

The basketball kids, most of them in their teens, trounced the Cubans 98-76 to gain the tournament semifinals but paid a heavy price in knots, bruises and shattered nerves.

With only 1½ minutes to play and the Americans comfortably ahead, 7-foot-4 Tommy Burleson of North Carolina State and Wally Walker of the University of Virginia went for a loose ball with Cuba's Juan Domeco. The three of them went spilling on the floor.

At that moment, the charged-up Cubans surged off the bench en masse, and a brawl began. "They were throwing punches at everybody in sight," said player Mel Weldon, who was on the court at the time. "They concentrated on Burleson. I was trying to get Walker to his feet, and they fell on me from behind."

A bottle was tossed from the Cuban bench and shattered as it hit the hardwood floor, scattering glass. Walker suffered a cut on his right hand, requiring three stitches.

Duane Woldzen, an assistant team manager from Lakewood, Wis., College was hit on the head with a chair. Head coach Ed Badger was kicked in the stomach and his white shirt showed the foot marks. Players suffered bruises.

"I got hit on the arm," said Weldon.

"I was hit five or six times," added Burleson, a stringbean who was a member of the U.S. Olympic team at Munich. "Those Cubans wouldn't fight—they just kept hitting from the blind side."

"I was down, got up and got knocked down again," said Burleson.

"I saw a Cuban grab the starter's gun and heard it go off," Burleson said. "I was really scared."

The tenor of the crowd quickly changed. The Soviet fans, earlier cheering their Communist brothers from across the ocean, turned to whistling and jarring when play was restored. "America, si, Cuba, no," they screamed.

The victory sent the U.S. team into the semifinals against Brazil, 61-51 winner over Czechoslovakia.

Then the next step is Friday's final, where the opponent is almost certain to be the Soviet Union, boasting several players who ruined America's 36-year Olympic basketball reign at Munich. The Russians gained a semifinal berth Wednesday by beating Bulgaria 87-57.

The American women's team, with new confidence, gained the final with a 59-55, incident-free triumph over Cuba, setting up a Friday showdown with the Russians, who beat the Americans 92-53 in the first round.

"We are a more experienced and poised team now," said head coach Jill Upton from Mississippi State. "We may not win, but the Russians will know they've been in a fight."

Meanwhile, the Russians won three of the six events at the Central Lenin Swimming Pool—beating Cathy Carr, America's world record-holder and double Olympic gold medalist, in the women's 100-meter breaststroke—and added three gold medals in tennis.

This boosted the Russian overall total to 54 gold medals, 26 silver and 25 bronze. The United States added three golds and three silvers in swimming and had a medal count of eight golds, seven silvers and 13 bronze.

The day's biggest surprise was the defeat of the 18-year-old Miss Carr of the University of New Mexico in the women's 100-meter breaststroke, her best event.

Lubov Rusanova, swimming behind Miss Carr almost all the way, spurred with 20 yards to go and touched out at 1 minute, 15.5 seconds, a tenth of a second ahead of the American girl. The time was a Games record but well off Miss Carr's world mark of 1:13.6.

Miss Carr, not at her best, also lost a lead in the breaststroke leg of the 400-meter medley relay, and it took a strong comeback by Irene Arden of the University of Washington in the butterfly to put the U.S. girls back in the race.

With Sally Tuttle of Ventura, Calif., Junior College swimming the freestyle anchor, the Americans barely won in 4:29.8.

Royals Tip NY In 10th

Kansas City (UPI)—Fred Patek stroked a two-out runcoring single in the 10th inning Wednesday night to lift the Kansas City Royals to an 8-7 victory over the New York Yankees and complete a three-game sweep for the Royals.

Lou Piniella led off the 10th by reaching base when Mike Hegan dropped Hal Lanier's throw.

Piniella took second on a sacrifice by Rick Reichardt and Kurt Bevacqua was walked intentionally. Sparky Lyle, whose record dropped to 4-9 with the loss, struck out Fran Healy for the second out before Patek delivered his game-winning hit to right.

Doug Bird, 4-3, was credited with the victory after escaping a two-on, none out situation in the top of the 10th.

Aaron Homers; Braves Lose

Atlanta (UPI)—Pinch-hitter Jose Cruz hit a towering two-run homer over the right field fence in the ninth inning Wednesday night to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 6-4 victory over the Atlanta Braves despite Hank Aaron's 705th career home run.

Bernie Carbo singled with one out in the ninth and Cruz came out to bat for Mike Tryon, hitting a Joe Niekro pitch high up on the right field wall about 20 feet from the ground.

The Braves had tied the score at 4-4 in the seventh when Ralph Garr singled home Paul Casanova.

An inning earlier, the 39-year-old Aaron, now just nine home runs behind Babe Ruth's career record, hit his 32nd homer of the season, a line drive over the 375-foot mark in left centerfield.

The Cardinals jumped into a 4-2 lead in the top of the sixth when they scored three runs, two on solo home runs by Ted Sizemore and Joe Torre and the other when Ted Simmons singled home Tim McCarver, who had doubled.

Mets Outlast LA, 4-3

New York (UPI) — John Milner singled home Felix Millan from second base with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning Wednesday night to give the New York Mets a dramatic 4-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Mets tied the game on Millan's run-scoring single down the third base line. Rusty Staub followed with a single that sent Millan to second. Pete Richert came on to pitch for the Dodgers and Milner lined a single to center field and Millan had to knock over catcher Steve Yeager to score the winning run.

Court Says King Better Than Riggs

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Margaret Court, beaten by Bob-by Riggs early this summer in their heralded "battle of the sexes," predicted Wednesday arch rival Billie Jean King will easily defeat Riggs in their $100,000 winner-take-all match next month at Houston.

"Billie Jean will beat him," Mrs. Court said during play at the Virginia Slims Women's Grass Court Championships, where she is the defending champion.

"I would have beaten him myself if we'd played the next day," she said. "I would like another go at him myself."

Asked why she lost to the 55-year-old Riggs the first time, the 30-year-old Australian star said "It started out as a gag. I didn't realize Riggs was taking it seriously. Then on the day of the match, it became really weird. He wandered into my room about an hour before the match and said he was sorry — he had the wrong room. Then he gave me the roses on the court. Mentally I wasn't ready for him."

Mrs. King's doubles partner, Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, also felt Mrs. King would defeat Riggs—and in three straight sets.

Pirates Over Astros

Houston (UPI) — Bob Moose pitched a six-hit shutout and Rennie Stennett triggered a three-run seventh inning rally with a run-scoring single to pace the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-0 triumph over the Houston Astros Wednesday night.

Moose didn't walk a man in advancing to an 8-11 record. It was the sixth complete game for Moose, and kept the Pirates 1 1/2 games in back of St. Louis in the National League's Eastern Division.

"I would have beaten him myself if we'd played the next day," she said. "I would like another go at him myself."

Asked why she lost to the 55-year-old Riggs the first time, the 30-year-old Australian star said "It started out as a gag. I didn't realize Riggs was taking it seriously. Orioles Win 10th Straight Baltimore (UPI) — Brooks Robinson's bases-loaded single in the first inning sparked the Orioles to their 10th straight victory, a 4-3 decision over the Minnesota Twins Wednesday night.

Mike Cuellar, 12-12, needed relief help from Bob Reynolds in the eighth inning but came home a winner after spotting the Twins a 3-0 lead in the top of the first inning.

Match Win Could Lift Nicklaus To Top Money

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, who hasn't played since his record-breaking victory in the PGA, could regain his customary spot as the season's leading moneywinner with a successful defense of his U.S. Professional Match Play Championship this weekend.

Nicklaus pushed his money winnings for the season to $245,424 when he won the PGA in Cleveland a couple of weeks ago. It was the 14th major title of his career and broke the late Bobby Jones' record.

The victory, Jack's fifth of the season, also put him ahead of his 1972 pace when he won a record $320,542 and lifted him within range of overtaking Australian Bruce Crampton as golf's leading money winner this year.

Crampton has $273,351 and isn't competing in pro golf's only doubleheader—the $100,000 L&M Open and the $150,000 Match Play Championship—and a victory in the Match Play could put Nicklaus on top again. First place in that one is worth $40,000.

Both tournaments are scheduled for the 6,786-yard, par 71 MacGregor Downs Golf and Country Club course.

The L&M, a 72-hole stroke play tournament with a field of 144, begins Thursday and runs through Sunday. At the end of 36 holes, the eight players with the best scores drop out of that tournament and join eight exempt players in the Match Play.

Two rounds of Match Play, in which players compete head to head with the winner advancing to the next round, will be played both Saturday and Sunday. They'll be sandwiched around the third and fourth rounds of the L&M.

The exempt players for the Match Play, who won't get into action until the weekend, are Nicklaus, Johnny Miller, Tom Weiskopf, Tommy Aaron, Lee Trevino, George Archer, Jerry Heard and Grier Jones.

Nicklaus qualified as the defending titleholder and PGA champ, Miller as the U.S. Open titleholder, Weiskopf as the British Open king and Aaron as the Masters champion. The other four came off last year's money-winning list.

Among the leading players in the L&M, which offers a $20,000 first prize, are defending champion Lou Graham, pro rookie Ben Crenshaw, Frank Beard, Jim Wiechers, Julius Boros, Dan Sikes, Miller Barber and Larry Wadkins, who scored his second victory of the season in the USI Classic Sunday.

The final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by Hughes Sports Network.

Cubs Rally To Win, 6-5

CHICAGO (AP) — Milt Pappas posted his first victory since June 28 as the Chicago Cubs rallied for five runs in the fourth inning to defeat Cincinnati 6-5 Wednesday.

Paul Popovich provided the big blow in the rally with his first home run of the baseball season, driving home two runs.

The Reds' Fred Norman, 10-12, was hurt by five unearned runs in seven innings, with shortstop Darrel Chaney's miscue on a Rico Carty basesloaded bouncer setting up four tainted runs in the fourth.

Norman, who left for a pinch-hitter in the seventh, yielded only three hits but had another unearned run charged against him in the sixth on his own errant pickoff throw, two walks and a force play.

Among the leading players in the Cincinnati lineup were: Rose If 5 1 1 0, Kessinger ss 2 1 0 0, Morgan 2b 5 1 3 0, Monday cf 3 1 1 0, Driessen 3b 5 1 3 0, Williams lb 4 0 2 0, Trefez lb 4 1 1 1, Carty lf 2 1 0 1, Bench c 4 1 2 1, Hise lf 1 1 0 0, Tolian rf 4 0 1 1, Santo 3b 3 0 1 0, Geronimo cf 3 0 0 0, Cardenal rf 3 0 1 0, Kosco cf 1 0 0 0, Popovich 2b 4 1 1 3, Chaney ss 3 0 0 0, Rudolph c 0 0 0 0, Menke ss 0 0 0 0, Hundley c 3 0 0 0, Norman p 2 0 1 0, Pappas p 2 0 0 0, Carroll p 1 0 1 0, LaRoche p 1 0 1 0, Gagliano ph 0 0 0 0, King ph 1 0 0 0, Hall p 0 0 0 0.

U.S., State Agree On Study

An agreement calling for joint development of wildlife management guidelines on National Forests and National Grasslands in Nebraska has been reached by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission and the U.S. Forest Service, a branch of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The agreement will ultimately affect about 350,000 acres of public land. It includes the Wood Reserve, Pine Ridge and Bessey divisions of the Nebraska National Forest, Oglala National Grasslands, and McKelvie National Forest.

During the joint study, the Game and Parks Commission and the Nebraska National Forest will provide wildlife biologists to gather basic data pertaining to land-use planning for wildlife habitat and wildlife species. They will also study the specific needs of fish, wildlife, outdoor recreation and related management and the use of other resources on these public lands.

According to the agreement, the data gathered will be used as a basis for giving full consideration to the wildlife resources in land-use planning on all national forest system lands in Nebraska.

Foster Retains Boxing Title

Albuquerque, N.M. (AP) — Light heavyweight champion Bob Foster pumped hundreds of left jabs to the bloody face of South African challenger Pierre Fourie and retained his title Tuesday night by a 15-round unanimous decision.

Fourie, however, became only the second of 12 challengers to go the full route against the champion who was defending his title before a hometown audience for the first time.

He ripped a cut over Fourie's right eye in the first round and bloodied his nose in the second. In the 10th, it was Foster who suffered a slice over his left eye when Fourie came out in a left-handed style and surprised him.
